District negotiation proposal rejected

Students back teachers, hundreds boycott schools

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

Pomona teachers Friday rejected negotiations proposal made by the district, and a school boycott called the same day by sympathetic parents kept large numbers of students out of district classrooms.

The district proposal stated conditions under which negotiations on a 1976-77 contract would continue.

Teachers have demonstrated several times recently in the community to show their dissatisfaction with negotiations they have described as "extremely slow" and "frustrating."

Joining ranks this week with the teachers is a group calling itself the Committee for Concerned Parents. Three of its leaders are Ann Meslovich, Deena Riley and Corina Holcomb.

Committee members distributed flyers at district schools Wednesday and Thursday. The flyers were to be taken home by the children. They urged parents to participate in a Friday boycott.

It was particularly successful at two elementary schools, two junior high schools and the three high schools. Schools Supt. Charles Carpenter said late Friday afternoon that absenteeism was way above normal at San Jose and North San Antonio elementary schools; that at Palomares Junior High School 200 of the 417 students enrolled did not attend, and at Marshall Junior High School 82 out of the 482 stayed at home.

The greatest absenteeism was felt in the high schools, Carpenter said.

At Ganesha, 967 of the 1,718 students enrolled did not attend. At Pomona, 961 of the 1,595 enrolled stayed away and at Garey 565 of the 1,793 enrolled were absent.

Money and fringe benefits were not areas of disagreements, the teachers said at Tuesday's school board meeting. Differences center on the scope of what is negotiable and what is grievable. Two areas teachers have expressed disagreement on the size of classes, which in many instances they say are too large, and on the the number of hours a teacher will be required to spend in the classroom.

"We are particularly unhappy," said Mrs. Holcomb, that tax override monies are not being spent to reduce class size." She spoke of the May 27, 1975 tax override which parents and teachers strongly supported.

District administrators early Friday sent their negotiations proposal out to teachers as a situation report.

It called for the teachers to continue to work under the 1975-76 Pomona agreement during negotiations, and for the employment of additional classroom teachers "as soon as possible" to assist in reducing class size.

It repeated the 7.2 per cent salary increase offered teachers earlier, and the $1,200 per year per employe fringe benefits package, up $300 from last year.

"We saw the offer after it had been distributed to the teachers," said Del Pfeifer, executive director of the Associated Pomona Teachers (APT), teacher negotiations representative.

"We saw nothing new there. We have rejected it."

Carpenter said the offer was "made in the spirit of good faith and cooperation" and, he added, "we had hoped it would get the endorsement of APT membership."

Carpenter said the district shared the concern of one complaint voiced by teachers, that negotiations had been slow.

"We recognize," he added, "that teacher concerns are not confined to just the monetary issues.

"There is no intent to strip teachers of their rights, only an attempt to negotiate a contract in accordance with the Rodda Act." He was referring to Senate Bill 160, legislation which became California's collective bargaining law for public employes.

Carpenter said the Friday boycott will cost the district approximately $10,000 in state average daily attendance (ADA).

Negotiation sessions between the school board's representatives and APT's negotiations committee are scheduled for Monday and Tuesday, Carpenter said.

AFTER THE SENTENCING

Patricia Hearst is followed by Jerri Jewett, a matron for the U.S. Marshall's office, as she leaves the federal building in San Francisco on Friday after Miss Hearst was sentenced to seven years in prison.

'Violent nature of your conduct cannot be condoned'

Miss Hearst is given 7-year jail sentence

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst, a kidnap victim who became a bank robber, was sentenced to seven years in prison Friday by a judge who told her: "The violent nature of your conduct cannot be condoned."

The 22-year-old heiress was impassive as she stood before U.S. District Court Judge William H. Orrick. Asked by the judge if she wished to speak in her own behalf, she said softly, "No, your honor."

Miss Hearst's attorney, F. Lee Bailey, said the sentence was harsher than the defense team had expected.

"I assume she was stunned," he said. "But she expected the worst."

In addition to the seven-year sentence for armed bank robbery, the judge decreed an additional two-year term — to run concurrently with the seven — for Miss Hearst's use of a firearm in the April 15, 1974, robbery of the Hibernia Bank.

She will be eligible for parole one year and four months from now.

"... An appropriate term of imprisonment must be imposed that will serve as a deterrent to others and as punishment for the crimes of which you have been convicted," the judge told Miss Hearst.

Orrick gave her credit for 371 days of jail time served since she was arrested Sept. 18, 1975, in San Francisco, making her eligible for parole in 16 months.

However, the sentence does not end her legal troubles. She faces trial Jan. 10 on Los Angeles charges of kidnaping, assault and robbery.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr., who had urged Miss Hearst's imprisonment as an unrepentant criminal, said the seven-year sentence was "entirely appropriate and proper."

"I believe Miss Hearst will have every opportunity to remake her life into a useful citizen," Browning said.

A bitter Catherine Hearst, who has denounced the government for prosecuting her daughter, told reporters: "She never had a break all the way — not in the press or in the court." Her husband, San Francisco Examiner President Randolph Hearst, said of the sentence: "I don't know what it means."

Orrick, who rejected emotional defense pleas for Miss Hearst's immediate release, said he had agonized over his decision.

"The court has the deepest compassion for the defendant and also the friends and relatives of the defendant," he said.

However, in sentencing, he noted, "I begin with the jury's vedict." The jury, he recalled, found that Miss Hearst "freely and voluntarily committed an armed bank robbery" in which bystanders were shot.

Looking directly at the slim defendant, Orrick said, "Miss Hearst, although you did not personally shoot anyone, you are just as guilty as your accomplices. Violence is unacceptable in our society and will not be tolerated."

The packed courtroom was hushed as the judge declared: "It is the finding of this court that the defendant, Patricia Campbell Hearst, be committed to the custody of the attorney general of the United States ... for a term of seven years."

Orrick, who was assigned to the case by lot after the death of trial judge Oliver J. Carter, rejected the opportunity to sentence Miss Hearst under the Federal Youth Offenders Act, which would have made her eligible for immediate release on probation.

Motion filed to free Patty

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Immediately after Patricia Hearst was sentenced Friday to seven years in prison for a terrorist bank robbery, her attorney filed a motion seeking her release on bail.

F. Lee Bailey said he needed his client's freedom to assist him in appealing her March 20 conviction and her sentence.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. said outside of court that he will oppose the motion. No date has been set for a hearing on the matter.

Ian Smith gives up to pressure

Blacks in Rhodesia to rule in two years

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — After 11 years of defiance, Prime Minister Ian Smith's white goverment Friday bowed to international pressure and agreed to surrender power to the country's black majority within two years.

Smith told Rhodesians — faced with escalating guerrilla warfare that some black nationalists said would become a bloodbath — that no more "help or support of any kind" was available for the old regime. He said an interim government representing both blacks and whites would be set up to draft a constitution providing for majority rule.

The prime minister insisted that economic sanctions be lifted and guerrilla activity stopped as conditions for the change.

Smith's announcement came shortly after Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger ended an intensive 10-day diplomatic campaign in Africa to win Rhodesia's agreement to black majority rule.

The British government said Smith's acceptance of the plan was "a victory for realism and common sense" that "offers a real hope of bringing peace to Rhodesia and of averting the threat of intensifying warfare and bloodshed."

Rhodesian political leaders generally welcomed the announcement, although acceptance by black movements was qualified and the right-wing white Rhodesia National party called it "treachery."

President Ford said in Washington "a threat to world peace has been eased" and "the road is now open for an African solution to an African problem — free of outside intervention, violence and bitterness."

In a nationwide television and radio broadcast, Smith firmly tied the change to black rule to "categorical assurances" from Kissinger that the escalating war by black nationalists will end and that United Nations economic sanctions against Rhodesia will be lifted "as soon as the necessary preliminaries have been carried out."

Smith said he had messaged his government's acceptance of the proposals to Kissinger, who returned to Washington Friday. But he emphasized his decision was "subject to (the plan) being accepted by the other parties involved and ... to the lifting of sanctions and the cessation of terrorism."

A U.N. spokesman said in New York any decision to lift sanctions must come from the Security Council, which imposed them, and the initiative must come from Britain, which requested the sanctions. Sanctions were ordered in 1966 and broadened both in 1968 and 1976.

Large crowd seen for Carter's fair visit

Jimmy Carter's visit to the Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona today is certain to draw large crowds and highlight fair events.

The Democratic Presidential nominee will be accompanied by Gov. Edmund Brown, Jr. He is expected to arrive at the fairgrounds about 1:45 p.m. from Ontario Airport.

Carter plans to watch a square dance demonstration at the Plaza of the States and to join the dancers.

Other events today at the fair include the National Indian Fair featuring Pueblo Eagle and Buffalo dances, Apache Mountain and Spirit Dance, Navajo Gourd and Feather Dance and Iron Eyes Cody.

The C. B. Afflerbaugh Memorial Stakes will be the feature horse race today, with post time at 1 p.m.

A Dairymaids' milking contest will be held at 4 p.m. today in the Livestock Ring.

The spirited "Up With People" show at 8 p.m. will offer as the free evening entertainment in the grandstand.

David Merrifield, who had been unable to perform his trapeze act suspended from a helicopter until Wednesday, will return today.

Public works bill approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate on Friday passed a conference bill authorizing $4.7 billion over three years to continue and expand public works and economic development programs.

The 70 to 2 roll call vote sent the bill to the House.

The program, first authorized in 1965, provides for grants to local communities for job producing public works such as water and sewage treatment plants, vocational schools and health centers, as well as for industrial complexes.

Ex-Senator Douglas dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, whose lonely battles for social and economic justice helped build a monument of far reaching legislation, died Friday at his home here. He was 84.

Friends said death was attributed to respiratory arrest. They said Douglas had suffered three strokes in recent years.

In 18 Senate years and later, Douglas was consistent in his independence and idealism. He was a Quaker convert who joined the Marine Corps as a 50-year-old private and emerged a battle-wounded lieutenant colonel.

YTS takes measures to prevent violence

The riot-torn Youth Training School in Chino will be better equipped to handle violence in the future, the California State Employes Association said Friday.

Safety measures to prevent a recurrence of the violence that occurred Tuesday have been agreed upon, the CSEA announced.

A personnel radio alarm system installed last June but not operating at the time of the riot and escape, will be made operational, said Dan Western, CSEA general mananager.

Also, the school will be equipped with deadbolt lock control, and reevaluation of training programs, and immediate transfer of any inmate who attacks a staff member have been agreed to by the Youth Authority, said Western.

CYA officials have said that if the alarm system had been working during the riot and throat-slashing of guard Gary Cauble, "It might have prevented a breakout."

The system wasn't working because of technical problems according to Art German of the CYA.

ABC says tiny $1 electronic part quieted Ford, Carter

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A tiny electronic part which cost about $1 was blamed Friday for the 27-minute sound interruption in the first nationally televised debate between President Ford and Jimmy Carter.

American Broadcasting Co., which was responsible for distributing the sound and picture to television and radio operations, said "the failure was due to a major malfunction in the amplifier system."

The part that failed, called an electrolytic capacitor, cost between $1 and $1.25, said Phil Levin, ABC's chief engineer.

Joseph Keating of ABC-Radio, audio pool producer for the debate, said the troublesome item was a tiny capacitor, the size and shape of a cigarette filter, with a single wire at each end.

"It's always had a solid performance record," Keating said. "I never heard of one going bad before, or of the distribution amplifier ever failing."

The defective amplifier had been used to distribute sound during Ford's trip to China last year, and also at the Montreal Olympics and the national political conventions in 1976.

ABC said it had been "totally reliable" in those operations.

"It was an awful thing to happen," said ABC's Elliot Bernstein, the pool TV producer. "My engineers tell me the capacitor is a reliable piece of equipment."

Riles displeased with Brown veto

College-bound Californians below national average

SACRAMENTO (AP) — College-bound 1976 California high school students for the first time were below the national averages in verbal and mathematics aptitude scores, state schools chief Wilson Riles said Friday.

Riles said, however, the Californians' rate of decline in those two areas is slowing, according to data compiled from the Scholastic Aptitude Test. More than 100,000 students registered to take the so-called "college boards" while in high school.

Riles used the report on college-bound seniors to stress his displeasure with the veto by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. of a bill to reform intermediate and secondary education.

In a statement, Riles said:

"California's drop below the national average is disappointing to all Californians, of course, but it points up the need to begin reforming our junior and senior high schools to ensure that our students get a solid grounding in the academic fundamentals by the time they graduate."

Verbal and mathematical scores dipped five and three points, respectively, below 1974-75 levels, the report showed.

Nationally, the average verbal score in 1975-76 was 431, compared to 430 in California. There was a 15-point average score decline on the verbal test between 1973-74 and 1974-75.

Californians had a 470 mathematical average score in 1975-76, two points below the national average, after being one point higher the previous year. The decline in Californians' mathematical scores from 1973-74 to 1974-75 was 11 points.

The report also noted a large increase in the achievement test scores average for 30,000 California seniors who took the English Composition Test. Yet the 100,000 college-bound seniors showed a lesser increase on a similar Test of Standard Written English.

The English Composition average from the California Achievement Test soared from 508 in 1974-75 to 521 in 1975-76. The average for the whole test, which had declined from 530 in 1971-72 to 520 in 1974-75, increased to 524 last year.

Nov. 8 has been scheduled for the beginning of the murder trial of Rowland Heights insurance broker Samuel H. Brooks, accused of hiring the slaying Feb. 14 of a Calabasas private detective.

Brooks, 47, who operates the Amalgamated Insurance Brokers at 18415 Colima Road, pleaded innocent when he was arraigned in Van Nuys Superior Court and he was ordered to remain in jail without bail.

Brooks is accused of hiring Arthur Rohwedder, 40, of Indio, to kill private detective Michael Kenney, 38.

Kenney was shot to death from ambush outside of his home. Rohwedder told sheriff's detectives that Brooks hired him to kill Kenney because the private detective had been delinquent in repaying a loan Brooks had made him.

Rohwedder pleaded guilty to the murder and has been sentenced to state prison for life.

2 men to be charged in Ontario slaying

Two men arrested by Ontario police will be charged with suspicion of murder in the fatal shooting Wednesday night of Michael Gavin Nolan, said police Friday.

A third man sought in the investigation, Danny Ramirez, 24, turned himself into police but was released after questioning.

Facing murder charges are Richard G. Mathews, 23, of 958 E. D St., Ontario and William Lopez, 25, of Fontana.

The two men turned themselves into police shortly after midnight Wednesday, about six hours after the shooting at 1522 E. Fifth St., Ontario.

Nolan, 41, of 1462 E. Hawthorne St., was at the Fifth Street location working on a car with another man, Roger Sterling Duncan, when the shooting occurred.

The incident, said police, followed an argument apparently over the circumstances of the death of a mutual friend of the victim and suspects of the previous week. In that earlier shooting, Glen Lane, 27, died of what police believe was the accidental discharge of Lane's own gun, as he took it from his truck.

Brutocao to confront his opponent Lloyd at Eastland

Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., apparently will be confronted by his opponent, Louis Brutocao, at a Town Hall meeting today at 2 p.m. at Eastland Shopping Center in West Covina.

A spokesman for Lloyd says Brutocao wasn't specifically invited to meet with the congressmen, but "as a taxpayer, he certainly can show up.

"I just hope there isn't a nasty confrontation. We don't need that."

Stan Harper, chairman of Republican Brutocao's campaign, said Friday that Brutocao as a taxpayer was invited to the meeting.

"He invited every household in the area to attend," Harper declared. "I assure you it won't be an ugly confrontation."

Lloyd recently invited taxpayers to attend the session at Eastland "to let Congressman Lloyd know your feelings about current issues."

Brutocao said in a press release that he plans to ask Lloyd "why he has voted in Congress for more spending, bigger deficits and crippling cuts in our defense budget."

He noted that he will be representing taxpayers at the forum.

Lloyd's spokesman said the congressman will be at Eastland despite his plan to meet Democratic Presidential candidate Jimmy Carter at Ontario Airport about 1 p.m. today.

Albert apologizes to Brooke

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Carl Albert publicly apologized to Sen. Edward W. Brooke on Friday for saying "he'd be a slave if he were over there" in Liberia.

Albert made the remark into an open microphone Thursday when he chatted with Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller on the House dais while waiting for Liberian President William R. Tolbert Jr. to address Congress.

Albert issued a statement saying the "reported references were only historical." He did not elaborate on what the one about Brooke meant.

The speaker's brief statement concluded that "he apologizes for any statement that might have been embarrassing to Sen. Brooke whom he holds in the highest regard."

Albert and Rockefeller had been talking about whether most Liberians are pure black or have mixed blood and about a class system in that country when they obviously spotted Brooke.

"Ed Brooke — a one-man receiving committee," Rockefeller said.

"Yes, he'd be a slave if he were over there," Albert said.

Cadet leaders urge changes in honor code

NEW YORK (AP) — The cadets who run the U.S. Military Academy's honor system said Friday they will ask their fellow cadets to consider fundamental changes in the system, including a new provision that could allow students found guilty to remain at the academy.

Under the proposed changes, cadets would try their fellow students rather than turning that task over to an officer panel. The board could recommend retention of a cadet found guilty if it was satisfied he was basically qualified to become an army officer.

Cadet Michael Ivy, chairman of the honor committee, said in an interview that changes in trial procedure would probably be voted on by the corps some time next week. He said the proposal to implement an alternative to separation would be weighed in October.

The proposals are being checked out by the superintendent of the academy and Secretary of the Army Martin Hoffmann. They will also review the proposals if cadets approve them.

The honor code requires that "cadets will not lie, cheat or steal, nor tolerate those who do." Under the present system, the only punishment for convicted violators is separation from the academy.

West Point's system of administering that code has come under heavy criticism during the recent cheating scandal at the academy.

Under the present system, boards composed of 12 members of the honor committee hear the charges against an accused cadet and if they unanimously vote for a finding of guilty, the case goes to an officer panel.

The cadet is entitled to legal counsel when his case is heard by the officer panel. A finding of guilty by the officers automatically begins the process of separation.

Under the new proposal, the cases would be tried by 12-member cadet panels consisting of four members of the honor committee and eight cadets appointed from the corps at large, Ivy said.

The accused would have the right to legal counsel from the outset, Ivy said. Conviction would require the votes of at least 10 members of the 12-cadet board.

The decision of the trial board still would be subject to review by the academy superintendent and the Secretary of the Army.

The proposal for an alternative to separation is similar to one that was presented to the corps last year. Fifty-two per cent of the cadets voted for it, but that was short of the two-thirds vote necessary to make the change.

Many critics of the academy's honor system have singled out the separation provision as a key factor in cadet attitudes that led to widespread collaboration of a graded homework assignment by last year's junior class. About 110 cadets have resigned in that scandal, and most of them plan to seek readmission after a year under a plan conceived by Hoffmann.

PLEADS FOR CHILD — Arlene Herrera of Santa Paula pleads at a news conference for the return of her son, Estevan, 2, last seen with his father Ruben Johnson, who is sought in the slaying of a Ventura County newsman. The young mother offered a $1,500 reward for the safe return of her child.

Pact paves way for probe of Lockheed Corp. payoffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and West Germany signed an agreement Friday which clears the way for West German law enforcement officials to receive information from U.S. investigators about possible Lockheed Aircraft Corp. payoffs in West Germany.

The five-page pact was signed in a ceremony at the Justice Department at the conclusion of a week of negotiations between the two sides.

The West German delegation said the negotiations "were conducted in an open and friendly atmosphere."

The delegation statement continued, "Taking into consideration the constitutional provisions in existence in the Federal Republic of Germany, the American side has shown understanding for the special concerns of the federal government. A procedure is envisaged which meets the interests and requirements of both sides."

Wilhelm Schneider, director of the West German Ministry of Justice, signed the agreement for the delegation. John C. Keeney, a deputy assistant attorney general in the department's criminal division, signed for the United States.

The agreement obligates the nations to share information gathered in the investigation of allegedly illegal payoffs by Lockheed and its subsidiaries or affiliates in West Germany.

"Such information shall be used exclusively for purposes of investigation conducted by agencies with law enforcement responsibilities and in ensuing criminal, civil and administrative proceedings," the agreement states.

Kenney and Schneider said the two sides will enter further discussions if West German authorities decide they must provide some of the information received from the United States to the West German parliament or an investigative committee of the parliament.

The agreement "provides for any future use of the information to be subject to further discussions," Kenney told reporters.

The minutes of the negotiations noted that the agreement "does not foreclose the use of information" by parliament or parliamentary committees if the Justice Department consents.

In Diamond Bar

Homeowners to discuss transfer of schools

The latest developments in the proposed switch of school districts and in formation of a Municipal Advisory Council will be discussed by the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association Monday.

The general membership meeting will be held at The Hills Club, 1673 Maple Hill Road, at 8 p.m.

Homeowners' attempts to transfer North Diamond Bar schools from the Pomona district into the Walnut district will head the agenda, President Marty Spiegel said.

"After years of thwarted attempts, and hundreds of meetings, we finally have received the first approval needed to make this change," Spiegel said.

"It still is going to take an enormous amount of work if we are to achieve this goal. I sincerely hope that the people of the community who desire to see this transfer come off will attend this vital meeting."

A petition requesting the transfer has been validated by the county and approved by the county Committee on School District Reorganization.

It is scheduled to go before the county Board of Education on Oct. 26.

Richard Wales, special services coordinator with the county schools office, said, should the county school board approve the petition, the matter then would be referred to the Board of Supervisors.

Should the Board of Supervisors act favorably before the end of December, Wales explained, the annexation could take effect July 1, 1977.

However, should either the Pomona or Walnut school board file written protest, the transfer would have to go to a vote of the people in the respective district.

So far neither board has taken that action.

Spiegel said other matters to be discussed at the Monday meeting will include Proposition WW on the Nov. 2 election ballot, which will give Diamond Bar residents an opportunity to form a Municipal Advisory Council (MAC) and elect four members to serve on that council.

Names of 17 Diamond Bar residents will appear on that ballot proposal.

Spiegel said the League of Women Voters is planning meet-the-candidates forums at which the candidates will be introduced to voters.

Reports will be given on Diamond Bar's traffic safety campaign, membership activities and on nominations for a homeowners association election planned for the November meeting.

Residential development compromise to be reviewed by Ontario City Council

The Ontario City Council has balked at a proposed residential development where future homeowners would own and pay taxes on 7,200-square-foot lots but he allowed use of only 6,000-square-foot lots because of a utility easement.

As a result, the city staff and developer have worked out a compromise where the lots will be redesigned to allot 9,000-square-foot lots with homeowners allowed to use 7,200 square feet of space.

The project, being developed by the Presley Development Corp., involves nine lots along Locust Street between Mountain and Palmetto avenues.

The controversy arose because of a 20-foot wide easement owned by the Southern California Edison Co. for maintenance of transmission and distribution lines.

The utility prohibits any structures on the easement since a large truck drives over it monthly to spray the insulators.

When the proposed development came before the City Council Tuesday night for adoption of the final tract map, Councilman Homer Briggs offered a strong protest.

"I object to the 20-foot easements behind the homes. That portion of their property will be fenced off and they can't use it. Even if they plant a garden, the Edison Co. can drive a truck over it."

City Engineer Ed James told the council that prospective home buyers would be informed of the property restrictions. He added that gates to the restricted area could be buolt at individual homes for access.

The City Council deferred action on the tract map and instructed the city staff to seek a compromise between the developer and utility company.

Joyce Babitz, city planner, reported Thursday the developer had agreed to construct a double fence at the rear of the homes but provide access by building individual gates at reach residence.

In addition, the tract will be redesigned to reduce the number of lots from nine to eight, thus increasing the square footage from 7,000 to 9,000.

And although the property owners would be restricted on using the easement lane, it could be uitlized for walking dogs or playing ball, she added.

Mayor Paul Treadway had suggested the 20-foot wide strip might be used for parking recreational vehicles. But Mrs. Babitz said this would be prohibited.

The city planner will return the matter to the City Council on Oct. 5 for approval of the compromises, she said.

Bumper state fund surplus for year told

SACRAMENTO (AP) — There was an unrestricted general fund surplus of $738.4 million at the end of the 1975-76 fiscal year, state Controller Kenneth Cory reports.

But Cory added in a statement Tuesday that future inflation and costly enactments of the legislature "will make us happy we have every penny of it."

He said the unrestricted surplus was $183.4 million higher than for the end of the previous fiscal year, and didn't include $215.4 million of federal revenue sharing monies.

Cory added: "Despite this remarkably strong surplus condition, we cannot ignore the fact that expenditures increased at such a rapid rate last year they actually exceeded revenues by $31 million."

New senior citizen center may open soon

Senior citizens in Upland should be able to use their new center shortly after the first of the year if all goes smoothly.

The Upland City Council has approved the purchase of a former market at the corner of Third Avenue and C Street for $150,000 to be used as the Community Senior Citizen Center.

The acquisition price in excess of the $90,000 originally budgeted will come from Community Development Funds under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.

At Monday's meeting, the council approved the purchase of the property by the first of the year, but did not agree to a request by Fred Taunton, recreation director, that the city rent the building for a cost of $1,500 per month from now until the escrow closes.

Taunton said that numerous community groups have been working on programs over the past year and ready to conduct a viable program in the center as soon as it is available.

One of the programs proposed for the new center is a noontime meal program for an estimated 150 senior citzens.

The program would be operated by the Steelworkers Old Timers Foundation of Fontana which conducts similar programs in several West End communities.

JR. JAWS DISPLAY

A 12-foot shark dubbed "Junior Jaws" attracts the attention of first and second grade students from Mt. View School in Ontario at the Los Angeles County Fair. The paper mache giant was sculptured as a class project by some 90 students in the art classes of Rosemary Roberts at Magnolia Junior High School in Chino. Mrs. Roberts' son, John, who is a senior art major at La Verne College, designed the framework for the shark and acted as supervisor of the project. Some 200 ceramic teeth were fashioned into a denture to complete the monster. It is on display in the Education Building at the fairgrounds in Pomona.

Valley Humane Society reduces holding time

An upsurge in the number of homeless animals picked up by the Humane Society of Pomona Valley has forced a reduction in the amount of time animals are kept, according to Bruce Richards, director.

Based on Richards recommendation the Pomona City Council has approved a request that the minimum time for holding animals be dropped from 72 to 42 hours before they may be adopted or destroyed.

"We do not see any relief from the problem of our animal shelter being filled to capacity," Richards wrote the council.

Richards said the number of dogs and cats collected by the Humane Society has increased 29 per cent in the last year.

He said the Humane Society would continue to enforce the three-day waiting period except when crowding necessitates use of the shorter time limit.

Richards said the shorter time should still allow owners of lost pets enough time to find their animals.

Rowland road to be resurfaced

The Los Angeles County Road Department will resurface the intersection of Batson Avenue and Colima Road in Rowland Heights next week, Supervisor Peter Schabarum announced.

He said the project will eliminate the cross gutter, no longer needed because of the construction of drainage structures at the corner.

HOLDING BACK THE DARKNESS — Mother Charlezetta Waddles stands in the darkness of her Perpetual Mission in Detroit and holds a candle for light after Detroit Edison Co. turned off the electricity for failure to pay a $12,000 bill. The mission, a converted warehouse normally feeds dozens of people every day. Now it won't be able to stay open, according to Mother Waddles.

Ill, aged ignored— health official

SACRAMENTO (AP) — One health official has told a state hearing that California Medi-Cal nursing home fees make him conclude the state has "written off" the elderly and chronically ill.

Allen Ferguson, a Sacramento County health officer, made that comment at a Thursday hearing held by the state Department of Health on Medi-Cal reimbursement fees to nursing homes.

Noting that the present fee reimbursement schedule does not take into account the degree of a patient's immobility, for example, Ferguson told the three-member hearing board:

"I am led to believe the state has written off the aged and chronically ill as not worth the effort."

He added later he saw "no reason to increase the profit margins in the nursing home industry." But he said the reimbursement schedule should be changed to emphasize "quality care."

One nursing home industry spokesman said many homes will continue to provide inadequate care as long as the state provides low Medi-Cal reimbursement fees and does not increase the rates.

Robert Gerst, spokesman for the California Association of Health Facilities, said the nursing home industry needs the fee hike because of a 1975 state law requiring higher nursing home standards.

Credit card suit against Standard Oil tossed out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A federal panel has dismissed a $30 million class action suit filed on behalf of Standard Oil Co. credit card holders in eight Southern California counties alleging false advertising of the gasoline additive F-310.

A three-judge panel in U.S. District Court of Appeals ordered the dismissal of the suit after ruling that the five-year statute of limitations had run out.

The suit was filed by schoolteacher Sandra Lee Cartt on April 20, 1970. The suit said that Standard's advertisements — which claimed that the gasoline additive F-310 helped clear the air of pollutants — were false.

However, attorney Roger Diamond, representing Miss Cartt, said he will ask the justices to reverse their decision. If unsuccessful in that attempt, he said, he will appeal the decision to the state Supreme Court.

Diamond said he will argue that a "time out" in the statute of limitations was called by the court.

BRUCE CRIPE

Concert at Faith

A concert of sacred music will be given by Bruce Cripe Sunday at the 10:45 a.m. worship service at Faith Missionary Church in Pomona.

Seventh-day Adventists

Health, lifestyle explored

Members of the North Hills Church of Seventh-day Adventists at Claremont provided researchers at Loma Linda University this week with detailed information about their health and ways of living.

The information is being supplied on lifestyle questionnaires, developed as a part of a research project sponsored by the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md.

Following the collection of the questionnaires, epidemologists at Loma Linda University School of Health plan to obtain yearly reports of hospitalizations among Claremont Adventists.

A previous study among Seventh-day Adventists in California documented that lung cancer and other cancers known to be associated with smoking and drinking are extremely rare among Seventh-day Adventists, who, as a group, abstain from smoking and alcoholic beverages.

Serving as leaders for the new year are John Baerg, Montclair, head local elder; Ron Cole, Upland, general Sabbath school superintendent; George Minasian, La Verne, head deacon; and Coral Baerg, Montclair, organist.

The Rev. Jim Walters, pastor for the local congregation, and Harold Calkins, president of the Southern California Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, spoke at the banquet in Alta Loma.

Lititz lit by candles

LITITZ, Pa. (AP) — Each year since 1843 America's only candle festival has been held in this small Pennsylvania Dutch community.

The event features more than 5,000 candles, placed on wood lattices over a stream in Lititz Springs Park. A Queen of Candles starts the ceremony, then Boy Scouts with torches light the huge display of tapers that extends for a quarter-mile. As a Bicentennial gesture, Hallmark Cards donated the candles for this year's 134th annual celebration.

Perfume is a substance that has a fragrant odor.

It may be in the form of a liquid that you put on your skin to make yourself smell pleasant. Or it may be mixed with soap or used to scent body powders and other cosmetics.

The best perfumes are usually blends of flower and plant oils and artificial scents.

The fragrant oils used to make perfume are obtained from such flowers as roses, violets and jasmine.

Perfume oils can also come from sandalwood and cedar, from the bark of myrrh, the leaves of lavender and even the rinds of orange, lemon and lime.

Perfumes that are used for body scenting are made by dissolving the perfume oils in a special liquid that has no odor of its own.

A substance called a fixative is added to the perfume to make the odor last longer.

Synthetic, or manmade, perfume ingredients are made from chemicals. Most perfumes made today are entirely synthetic or contain many synthetic ingredients.

Africans turn U.N. focus on arpartheid

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — African delegates to the United Nations General Assembly are seeking to put a brighter spotlight on the issue in southern Africa that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has put on the back burner, white supremacy in South Africa.

The Africans got the assembly steering committee to recommend that the perennial question of the white South African government's apartheid policy of racial separation be debated before the entire Assembly. In the past it has been debated in the special political committee.

Salim Ahmed Salim of Tanzania told the committee that the question's importance required that it be given maximum prominence.

The full Assembly is certain to approve the recommendation.

Western delegates went along. But they indicated apprehension that the Africans would insist that the Assembly hear representatives of two antiapartheid political movements outlawed in South Africa, the African National Congress and the Pan-Africanist Congress.

W. Tapley Bennett Jr. of the United States agreed that the importance of the question made it worthy of discussion before the full Assembly. But he stressed that speakers in such meetings should be limited to representatives of member countries.

Jeremy Thomas of Britain said his government also had not changed its opposition to hearing liberation movements in the Assembly. Jacques Lecompt of France endorsed the British and American stands.

During his African shuttle that ended Thursday, Kissinger concentrated on trying to set up negotiations to transfer power to the black majority in Rhodesia and South-West Africa, or Namibia. He made no attempt to get Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa to modify his policies at home for two reasons:

1. Black nationalists are already waging guerrilla wars in Rhodesia and South-West Africa, and Kissinger fears they will escalate and the Soviets will intervene.

2. Kissinger needed Vorster's support to convince his supporters they must give up SouthWest Africa and to convince the Rhodesian whites they must turn over their government to the black majority.

Russ citizens write letters to editor

By SETH MYDANS
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — "If I were director, I would put a special garage for baby carriages in every apartment building," a man in Leningrad wrote to the editor of the Soviet newspaper Literary Gazette.

"I would demand that the police enforce the laws against profanity," a Moscow lawyer wrote.

"I would decree that every school give dancing lessons as well as singing lessons," said a letter from a woman from Chelyabinsk.

In the last two years, 3,000 Soviet citizens have given a glimpse of their daily concerns in letters to a regular column in the Literary Gazette called "If I were the Director."

The letters, as selected by the newspaper's editors, include a variety of suggestions about everyday conveniences, but few thoughts about the larger questions that confront the Soviet Union, such as housing problems, harvest shortfalls and shortages of consumer goods.

These questions are not generally the subjects of public discussion in a nation where almost every detail of daily life is controlled by the government.

And under an economy not guided by market considerations, consumer demands, like the following, often are not resolved as they can be in the West:

"I would open special clothing stores for very tall people."

"I would sell special knives for peeling potatoes, carrots and fruit."

"I would keep stores open during lunch hours so people could shop during their time off."

It would take a high-level government decree to implement the suggestion: "I would only allow building superintendents to come to work after 7 a.m. so people could get a little sleep."

Some of the letters suggest innovations that are already taken for granted in some Western countries:

"I would put parking lots at all airports. Many car owners — and their numbers are increasing — could start off on a business trip by driving to the airport."

"I would install radios in the seats of aircraft so people could listen to music during the flight."

"I would print health warnings on cigarette packages."

Other letters have a universal appeal, and could have been written by dreamers in almost any country:

"I would have separate cars on trains for people with noisy children."

"I would require markets to round off the prices of their items, to speed up the checkout lines."

"To increase labor productivity, I would install special equipment on all office telephones that would cut off conversation after three or four minutes."

"I would build a beautiful building in the middle of the city, complete with a bank, post office and every kind of store, and let the old people live there."

Intrigued by the response to its "Director" column, the Literary Gazette editors recently surveyed 500 of their letter writers. They found that the people with the most ideas for improving Soviet life are middle-aged men with good educations, living in the European cities of the Soviet Union.

"Men outnumber women among our 'directors' by three to one," the editors said. "Maybe it is because men like to be the leader."

It said 95 per cent of the letters come from people over 26 years of age, "which is natural because the life experience of youth is not so great."

Most of the letter writers are technical or professional people. Only one in 10 of the people with ideas for improvements was found to be a worker, the class of people who form the ideological bedrock of Soviet society.

The editors were pleased that "almost none of the letters were about private concerns, such as, "If I were director, the first thing I would do is get myself an apartment."

"This shows that our 'directors' are concerned not about themselves but about problems of society," the editors said.

Second 'Jaws' on way

NEW YORK (AP) — It filled movie theaters, lowered occupancy rates at some seaside resorts, and caused "Don't Go Near The Water" signs to pop up in the minds of swimmers.

"Jaws."

It also made close to $115 million in U.S. and Canadian film rentals alone for its makers, Universal Pictures, a company spokesman said.

"Jaws 2," the sequel, will be filmed next summer off Martha's Vineyard, also the locale for "Jaws," the spokesman said. It will be released sometime in 1978.

Who will be the film's stars and what will be the plot?

Roy Scheider, who played Martin Brody, the police chief of the fictional resort community of Amity Island in "Jaws," has been the only name mentioned so far, the spokesman said.

As for the plot, that has't been determined yet, he said, adding, "Maybe the shark (from "Jaws") will have laid an egg or something like that."

Three 25-feet-long, multiton, mechanical sharks were used in "Jaws." The man-eaters are on exhibit at Universal City Studios in California.

Wormwood

Beach wormwood, which grows beside ponds, is also called dusty miller because of the densely matted white hairs that cover its leaves, says the National Geographic Society.

Phils move closer to N.L. East crown

The opening of the champagne bottles of the Philadelphia Phillies is not far off now.

Philadelphia whittled down its magic number to just three games Friday night by splitting a doubleheader with the Montreal Expos.

The Phils took the opener 9-3, but then dropped the nightcap, 3-2. The team chasing the front-running Phils, Pittsburgh, fell in its first game to the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-6, but bounced back to kill the Cards, 11-1, in the second contest.

In the American League, Kansas City reduced its magic number to three by winning a 4½-hour marathon game from the Texas Rangers, 2-1, in 14 innings.

The Oakland A's lost a crucial game to the Chicago White Sox, 4-2, to drop behind the Royals by six games.

The New York Yankees moved a step closer to winning the A.L. East flag with a split of their doubleheader with Detroit. The Tigers won the first game, 3-0, while the Yanks won 8-0 in the second game.

In the initial game at Montreal, Dave Cash, Greg Luzinski, and Mike Schmidt each drove home two runs. Luzinski's single in the fifth inning scored Bobby Tolan with the tie-breaking run.

Larry Christenson, 13-8, picked up the win while Steve Rogers (6-17) suffered the defeat.

Montreal's win in the second game was only its third in 15 meetings with the Phils this season.

Earl William's two-out double in the sixth inning drove in Ellis Valentine with the go-ahead tally. Winning hurler Don Stanhouse (9-11) gave up 10 hits to the Phils.

The victory for Philadelphia in the opener gave them the most wins in a season at 93. The previous high was 92 wins in 1964.

St. Louis dealt Pittsburgh a bad blow in the first of two, when Mike Tyson slammed a three-run inside-the-park home run in the second inning.

The battlin' Bucs bounced back to win the nightcap behind Jim Rooker's six-hitter. The win was only Pittsburgh's third in their last eight games. The Pirates struck for six runs in the ninth inning to easily put the game out of reach.

Grant Jackson (7-1) tossed a neat five-hitter and Greg Nettles drove in three runs with his 30th homer to pace New York to the second game victory.

Wayne Garland posted his 19th win of the season for the Baltimore Orioles with a 3-0 shutout against Boston. Ken Singleton's 13th HR launched an Orioles' rally for three runs in the second inning off loser Rick Wise (13-11).

The A's lost a "must" game to the White Sox, as Jorge Orta singled in two runs in the eight inning to clinch the win. Francisco Barrios allowed just six hits to the losers.

Kansas City's winning rally began when John Wathan singled up-the-middle off Ranger reliever Steve Foucault.

Garey must settle for tie

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

In a game they might have won by four or five touchdowns, the Garey Vikings had to settle for a 6-6 tie against La Sierra of the San Andreas League Friday night at Mt. San Antonio College.

Coach Lawson Bush of Garey was less than enthralled by the tie. "That was the worst game we've played since I've been here," he lamented. "The very worst." Bush has been at Garey four years.

"Penalties, penalties, penalties," he said, shaking his head. "Penalties and dropped passes. We should have had 36 points."

The Vikings saw two apparent touchdown runs by Ralph Dixon nullified by penalties and three Al Clay passes dropped by Viking receivers behind the La Sierra secondary.

But penalties against Garey also had an effect when the visiting Eagles had the football. La Sierra's lone score of the evening was aided and abetted by Viking infractions.

The Eagles were trailing the Vikes, 6-0, early in the fourth quarter when they took over on downs on their own 17-yard line.

La Sierra quarterback Mark Flowers took his team the 83 yards to paydirt in 10 plays, not counting the four Garey penalties that amounted to 30 yards on the drive.

Among those penalties were a 15-yard pass interference call and a five-yard encroachment infraction on a third-down-and-one situation for the Eagles at the Viking 28.

La Sierra's Don Griffin ran 18 yards around the end on the next play and teammate Paul Gonzales twisted and turned the final five yards to the end zone.

The conversion kick was low, as was Garey's after the Vikings scored their lone touchdown in the second period.

That TD came on the game's longest play from scrimmage, a 47-yard pass from Clay to junior receiver David Forte.

Garey had taken possession on its own 38 after a La Sierra punt, the second play of the second quarter. Ralph Dixon, the game's leading rusher with 64 yards on 11 tries, carried the ball for four yards and a holding penalty against the Eagles moved the Vikes another 15 yards to the La Sierra 42.

Garey was penalized five yards on the next play and Clay followed with the bomb to Forte, who had slipped by defender John Yanez.

The Vikings were assessed 95 yards in penalties overall on 13 separate infractions. The Eagles were called four times for 50 yards.

Garey held a substantial edge over its opponent in total yardage, 241-146. Each team rushed for 137 yards — Garey on 29 carries and La Sierra on 32 — but Clay completed 9 of 18 passes for 123 yards while Flowers hit on just 2 of 6 for 22 yards. Each quarterback was sacked twice.

But Clay threw two interceptions while Flowers lost just one — to Garey's Roosevelt Lett. Clay's final interception ended Garey's last ditch effort to score a second time when La Sierra's Yanez picked off the ball inside the Eagle 20 with 15 seconds left. Clay had moved his squad 41 yards on 10 plays to the Eagle 28 after La Sierra's score.

Garey, 1-0-1, will visit Montclair Friday for its first San Antonio League game.

Montclair ends losing streak

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

The valley's longest prep losing streak ended Friday night, as Montclair High rallied for two second-half touchdowns to beat visiting Ontario 14-0.

The win for the Cavaliers was their first on the gridiron since the opening game of last year, when they downed Alta Loma 7-6. Since then coach Rick Bare's squad had dropped nine straight, including their opener this year to Alta Loma.

"It's finally over," Bare said with a sigh of relief after the hard-earned victory over the Jaguars. "For a while there I was thinking that neither team would score, but our defense came through with some big plays and that turned things around."

The Cav defensive unit forced two big interceptions in the late going to put the win on ice. With Montclair ahead 7-0 by virtue of Kent Gurney's 64-yard TD dash late in the third quarter, the Jags were attempting a comeback in the final period.

But interceptions by Ken Hartline and Darrin Pierce put the lights out on Ontario. Hartline's interception of a George Vallejo pass late in the contest set up the final Cav score, Arnie Mello's six-yard scamper to paydirt with only 52 seconds remaining in the contest.

"I thought our entire defensive team did a great job," Bare said. "In particular, we shut off their two big runners, (Tommy) Jefferson and (Larry) Cutbirth. I thought they would be able to get outside on us but we contained them."

Actually, Ontario dominated the scoreless first half, threatening to score twice. One of those drives was stopped on the Montclair seven when a Vallejo pass fell incomplete in the end zone. The other march was halted late in the half when Cutbirth fumbled on the two and Rod Johnson recovered for the Cavs.

Montclair's lone drive of the opening 24 minutes ground to a halt at the Ontario 29, from where Gurney tried a field goal on fourth down.

However, the center of the Jags' defensive line rose to that occasion to block the try.

The scoreless trend continued through most of the third quarter, as the two teams exchanged punts most of the stanza.

A Jeff Shipley punt which rolled into the end zone put the Cavs on their own 20 as time was running out in the quarter.

From there rushes by Gurney and fullback Don Markley brought the ball out to the 34. On the next play Gurney charged up the middle and, aided by a great block by Tom Weaver and some shifty changes of speed, dashed 64 yards down the center of the field to pay dirt.

It was the Cavs' first TD of the season and sent the hometown fans into wild cheering. Gurney added the PAT kick to make it 7-0.

Hartline's theft of a deflected Vallejo pass led to the final TD of the game. Hartline returned that interception to the Ontario 26, and from there the Cavaliers put it across in six plays, Mello going the final six on a sweep around left end.

Montclair had the edge in total offense in the contest, with 236 yards to Ontario's 173. Gurney was the top rusher in the game with an even 100 yards in 15 carries, while teammate Mello added 31 yards on only five totes.

Jefferson led the Jaguar rushing game with 51 yards on 16 carries, Cutbirth adding 36 on 11 attempts.

The wet weather hampered both teams' passing games, as Montclair QB Steve Jetton hit on only two of nine aerials and Jag signalcaller Vallejo clicked on only two of 11.

Tulsea displays his class

George Ahterberg's hard-knocking Tulsea displayed his proven class to nine two-year-old rivals in Friday's $17,270 Beau Brummel Stakes at the Los Angeles County Fair.

A chestnut gelding by King of the Sea — Tulareco, Tulsea was victorious in the first start of his racing career, last April, on Heart Alone and with his Beau Brummel triumph Friday, he became a triple stakes winner. Conditioned by L. J. Brooks, the juvenile also accounted for Hollywood Park's Cabrillo Stakes in a dead heat and the $20,000 added De Anza Stakes at Del Mar, a race in which he defeated local divisional kingpin, Visible, by nearly five lengths.

After garnering a paycheck worth $10,220 in the six furlong contest, Tulsea boosted his lifetime earnings to $52,120 with victories in five of nine outings.

Bobby Howard, opening a bit of daylight in the fair jockey race, was aboard Tulsea for the first time Friday, and the pair returned popular mutuel payoffs of $4.00, $3.00 and $2.60.

Mr. Davey Nay challenged the winner heading for the final turn then gave way when Tulsea became too much for him. At 11-1, Mr. Davey Nay paid $6.20 and $5.40. A neck back in third came Struttin' George, who broke poorly and paid $3.20.

Featured attraction today at the Fairgrounds is the $20,000 added C. B. Afflerbaugh Memorial Stakes at a mile and one-sixteenth. A contentious band of six will face the starter, including the Robert Weber-owned entry of Rocket Review, second last out in the Governor's Cup, and Eastern Star. The Afflerbaugh preceeds the $30,000 added Pomona Handicap by one week.

Braves much improved

By TIM CLARK
PB Correspondent

Tom Cook's Alta Loma Braves will enter Hacienda league play this Friday at Sierra Vista as the most improved (and surprising) football team in the valley.

The resurging Braves improved their season record to a perfect 2-0 Friday night at foggy Chaffey college with a relatively easy 22-6 victory over a hopelessly undermanned Upland squad.

The contest was not exactly an offensive masterpiece, with both teams combining for an un-awesome total of 171 yards total offense, the Braves "rolling up" 119.

Ninety-six of the Braves yards came via the arm of senior quarterback Dave Silva, who made good on five out of eight tosses.

Unfortunately for the Braves, Silva was forced out of the game on the first play of the fourth quarter, suffering a concussion after being racked up by Upland defensive end Curt Killion on a pass play.

Silva, who many prep followers believe to be the premier quarterback in the Hacienda League this season, has hit on 9 of 15 attempts (60 per cent), good for 171 yards thus far.

Alta Loma wasted no time in deciding the score, dropping the Highlanders back at the 11-yard line at the initial kickoff. Four plays later, Brave linebacker Jim Elligson recovered a Killion fumble in the Highlander endzone for a quick 6-0 lead. Following another Highlander fumble (this time at their own 6), tailback Mike Munoz pushed the pigskin across from the 2, and it was lights out for Upland.

Mike Sloan was the leading rusher for Alta Loma, picking up 27 yards in nine carries. The leading rusher of the game, however, was Scot fullback Kelly Reifel, with 34.

Upland, which seems to be in store for a very long year, will visit Pomona Thursday evening at MSAC.

'Hawks keep Steve Myer

SEATTLE — Former Mt. San Antonio College star Steve Myer has survived another round of cuts with the NFL SeattleSeahawks.

The Seahawks cut veteran quarterback Neil Graff Thursday, leaving only three quarterbacks on their roster. They are ex-Cal Poly star Jim Zorn, who has apparently won the starting job, 13-year veteran Bill Munson and Myer, a rookie out of MSAC and New Mexico.

"Neil's a good quarterback," Seahawk coach Jack Patera said Thursday. "He's a good team man. But it's hard to work three quarterbacks in a season, so the third one has to be someone you are going to train. Myer has a good arm and he looks like he could be a football player."

Myer, who has played only briefly with the Seahawks so far this year, was the Most Valuable Player in the Coaches All-American football game this past summer. While at New Mexico, the former Mountie broke 13 school records and tied another, completing 196 of 353 passes in his senior season for 2,501 yards and 21 touchdown.

Fox carries Ali-Norton

The Fox Theatre in Pomona will carry the closed circuit telecast of the Muhammad Ali-Ken Norton heavyweight title fight, Tuesday night.

Action will come direct from Yankee Stadium in New York City, starting with preliminary bouts at 6:30 p.m.

Ali and Norton will be meeting for the third time with the series tied at one win each. Norton captured their first go around in San Diego in March of 1973.

All seats will be priced at $15.

Torrance picks on Ganesha

TORRANCE — Torrance High won its first football game since 1973 Friday night, 13-6 over visiting Ganesha. The Tartars had lost 21 straight games before earning a 0-0 tie with South Torrance last week.

The hosts broke a 6-6 deadlock on a one-yard touchdown run by fullback Jim Kearney with 9:59 left in the game.

Ganesha had tied the score at 6 on a razzle-dazzle play win the second quarter. On a fourth-and-14 situation, the Giants' Floyd Williams scored from 28 yards out on a flanker reverse. The kick was blocked.

Torrance scored in the first period on a two-yard run by halfback Brian Merrill.

Ganesha built a 217-168 advantage in total yardage but lost the game on turnovers. Quarterback Joe Madrigal had one pass intercepted and the Giants lost three fumbles, all in Torrance territory. Two of the fumbles came in the fourth period, one on the Tigers' 48 and the other on the 35. Ganesha fumbled earlier in the game on the Torrance 15.

Ganesha, 0-2, will open San Antonio League play against Damien Friday at Cal Poly.

Vista tops Red Devils

VISTA — Pomona High spotted host Vista High two scores in the first quarter Friday night and eventually fell to the San Diego county team, 20-14.

Vista, ranked fifth in the CIF San Diego County section, put 12 points on the scoreboard on the opening 12 minutes on runs of six and four yards by Kevin Silva. Vista missed both PAT attempts when runs failed.

The Devils came back to make it 12-7 at the half as fullback Ricky Fairman bulled over from the one and Brian Donahue kicked the PAT.

Vista scored what turned out to be the game-winner in the third quarter, as guard Tony Reil fell on a fumble in the end zone for a TD and a pass for two points was successful.

The final score of the night came later in the quarter as Devil halfback John Bullock gathered in a Darrell Keepers' pass and rambled 50 yards to score. Donahue added the PAT kick.

The win for Vista gives it a 2-0 season record. Pomona, despite another good effort, falls to a 0-2 ledger. The Devils open San Antonio League play next Thursday when they will entertain Upland at Mt. San Antonio JC.

Damien shows offensive power

By MARK GRIP
PB Correspondent

Damien High showed its fans that it very well could be a contender for the San Antonio League crown again this year Saturday night at the Spartan field.

The defending co-champions outscored visiting San Gabriel, 34-21, in a display of offensive power.

A damp field, that grew damper by halftime due to a light rain, was a key factor in 10 fumbles by the teams combined.

The Spartan ground attack accounted for 200 of its team's 330 total yards offense.

Halfback Doug Paul led the ground charge with 73 yards on 15 carries. Fullback Leo Burke was close behind with 69 yards on 13 carries.

The Damien passing game was equally impressive as quarterback Dan Marconi connected on 10 of 18 passes good for 130 yards, three touchdowns and a two-point conversion.

The Matador passing attack was equal to the task as QB John Betance hit on 10 of 19 tosses for 127 yards.

Betance's favorite target on the evening was Dave Pacheco. The duo hooked up for 106 yards on seven completions.

The San Gabriel rushing game mounted 120 yards led by sophomore halfback Bill McFarland with 85 yards. Rick Gonzales added 33 yards from his fullback position.

Damien built a 6-0 first quarter lead with a half minute remaining when Leo Burke scored from the two and the run for two points failed.

The Spartans scored again with 8:16 left in the half as Mike O'Niel took a twelve yard scoring pass from Marconi. Brian Sullivan added the conversion kick.

Wight took a screen pass from Marconi on the Matador 20 yard line and scampered into the end zone for a 21 yard scoring play. The kick failed with 8:16 to go in the third quarter.

Marconi connected with Lopez for a six-yard TD pass with 4:09 to play. Sullivan added the point after.

San Gabriel scored twice in the second quarter and once in the fourth quarter, for its 21 points.

The first Matador TD was a 43-yard pass from Betance to Pacheco with 11:10 left in the first half. John Crook added the PAT.

McFarland dashed 34 yards for paydirt with 28 seconds left in the half with Crook booting the extra point.

S.A. Valley buries Chino

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

SANTA ANA — Chino High never had a look at Friday night's contest as the Cowboys were overpowered by a tough Santa Ana Valley squad.

Santa Ana rolled up 284 yards as the Cowboy defense was powerless in dropping a 42-14 decision at the hands of the Falcons at Santa Ana's Municipal Satdium.

Chino buried itself in a pile of turnovers and penalties. Nothing went right all evening after Santa Ana Valley blocked a Cowboy punt back into the Cowboy endzone for a safety. It was all downhill from that costly mistake.

Santa Ana promptly took the free kick on the safety and began to roll up the points. Through three quarters Chino hardly had its hands on the ball.

Chino never had a shot at punching the ball in for a score until Santa Ana Valley led 42-0. The Cowboys were lucky to tally any points as their two touchdowns came on Falcon mistakes.

Chino, finding it couldn't run on the Falcons stalwart defense, took to the air but it was the Cowboy running attack that finally began rolling after Santa Ana Valley had salted away the contest.

Quarterback John LaBrucherie completed eight of 16 passes for a total of 75 yards. Chino gained 79 yards on the ground but a third of the yardage accumulated came in the fourth quarter.

Chino was constantly plagued by the Falcon barrage of ground yards. Santa Ana Valley time and again was able to burst through the Chino defense for long gains. The Falcons finished the night ripping the Cowboy defense for 185 yards.

Bob Powell was the chief thorn in the Cowboy side as he racked up 63 yards in 15 carries before leaving the game for good with a twisted ankle. He added 26 to his total on two short pass receptions.

Chino was also bothered by the Falcon passing as a Santa Ana Valley due completed eight of 10 passes for 99 yards.

Chino had several shots at coming back against Valley, but the Cowboys failed to capitalize on them.

A total of 115 yards of penalties amassed by the Falcon's stopped Santa Ana Valley from knocking Chino out of the stadium.

Chino returns to action to tackle Claremont at Citrus High Friday night in its opening San Antonio League contest.

Walnut comes back, San Dimas beaten

Walnut High evened its pre-Hacienda League record at 1-1 Friday night with a come-from-behind 23-14 win over Rowland, but San Dimas fell to host Valencia 14-7.

The Saints are now also 1-1 on the year. Both teams open Hacienda League play next week vs. one another Friday night at Bonita High.

Walnut overcame a 14-13 halftime deficit with a touchdown, a two-point PAT and a safety in the second half.

The Mustangs had taken a 13-0 lead after one quarter as Kevin Morgan gathered in a 68-yard scoring pass from quarterback Kevin Loggins and Kevin Bowlin ran for another TD from the four.

However, Rowland (now 0-2 on the year) came back to go ahead in the second quarter, as John Cain passed to Ray Baiza for one score and Tony Paisley ran for the go-ahead six points.

Bowlin gave the Mustangs the lead again in the third quarter, scoring from the three. That TD culminated a long 65-yard march for the Mustangs. Morgan ran for the two points to give Walnut a 21-14 lead.

The final score came in the final period as Mustang linebacker Andy Crowe tackled Baiza in the end zone, making it 23-14.

San Dimas was its own worst enemy at Valencia. A fumbled punt set up the first Valencia score and, after Perry Aris had tied the game up in the third quarter with an 85-yard scamper, another Saint fumble set up the final Valencia score.

In all, the Saints lost the ball on fumbles six times in the contest and the Valencia defense contained the usually potent S.D. running attack.

Ron Cey's single gives Dodgers' win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The race may be all over with, but Los Angeles Dodgers third baseman Ron Cey says it's been a hell of a year anyway.

Cey's bases-loaded single with one out in the ninth Friday night lifted the Dodgers to a 7-6 victory over the Cincinnati Reds, their fifth victory in a row.

Cincinnati had overcome a 5-3 Los Angeles lead in the top of the inning to move on top 6-5.

"It's always nice to beat the Reds," said Cey. "We let it slip out of our grasp in the ninth but then it was really to see us come back in our half.

"I just didn't want to hit into a double play. The race might be all over with, but overall I think the Dodgers have had a hell of a year."

Dave Lopes, who had homered in the fifth, led off the Dodgers' ninth against Will McEnaney with a single. Bill Buckner lined out, but Reggie Smith doubled off the centerfield wall. Rawly Eastwick, the fifth Cincinnati pitcher, took over and walked Steve Garvey intentionally, loading the bases. Cey then drove Eastwick's next pitch into right center, scoring Lopes and Smith.

Charlie Hough, who surrendered the three Cincinnati runs in the top of the ninth, emerged with his 12th victory in 20 decisions. McEnaney, 2-6, took the loss.

Bill Russell broke a 1-1 tie with a two-run double in the fourth and Lopes' homer gave Los Angeles a 4-1 lead. Ken Griffey and Dave Concepcion drove in runs in the Reds' sixth, cutting the Dodgers' lead to 4-3.

In the Cincinnati ninth, two-out, run-scoring singles by Cesar Geronimo, Pete Rose and Ken Griffey had put the Reds ahead 6-5.

Trailing 5-3 going into the ninth, the Reds got started against Hough when Bob Bailey and Dan Driessen walked with one out. Pinch hitter Johnny Bench fouled out for the second out, but Geronimo, Rose and Griffey followed with their hits.

After the Dodgers had gone ahead 4-1, Cincinnati scored twice in the sixth off starter Tommy John. Los Angeles got its fifth run when Hough singled home Glenn Burke with two out in the eighth.

After George Foster's double in the Reds' first, John struck out Tony Perez for the third out of the inning. John retired 14 straight Reds batters before walking Ed Armbrister leading off the sixth when the Reds scored two runs.

Edgewood blanks Chaffey

In other prep action, Webb blanked CSDR, 16-0, American Christian rolled over Huntington Valley, 32-8, La Verne Lutheran lost to San Jacinto, 26-8, and Ontario Christian fell to Yucca Valley, 13-6.

Egewood lineback Paul Steimel blocked Jay Mellburg's punt attempt at the Tiger 23-yard line and chased the ball into the end zone to recover for six points. Ken Angulo kicked the extra point and added a 37-yard field goal with two seconds left in the first half.

Chaffey came closest to scoring in the third period when a Tiger drive stalled at the Edgewood 4. Quarterback John Gable's pass attempt on fourth down failed.

The Tigers rushed for 42 yards to Edgewood's 58 and passed for 76 yards to Edgewood's 70. Both teams had trouble moving the ball on the wet field.

Gable completed 4 of 20 while Edgewood's Mike Toothman was successful on 9 of 14. Each team is now 1-1.

Len Hassler's coaching debut at Webb was a very successful one, a 16-0 shutout. Jim Hassler, the coach's son, kicked a 35-yard field goal in the first quarter and the Golden Gaul's added 13 points in the final period.

CSDR never threatened to score.

Webb will play Aquinas at San Gorgonio High Friday.

Bruins tackle Falcons

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The fifth-ranked UCLA football team has rolled up 920 yards in total offense in two games, most of it by rushing.

The Air Force Academy lost to Iowa State 41-6 last week and the Cyclones scored all of their touchdowns on passes.

Put those two statements together and you get the idea that UCLA must pass to beat the Falcons when the teams collide at the Coliseum tonight.

And Coach Terry Donahue of the Bruins acknowledges he will have to call more pass plays.

"We hope to call about 15 or 16 pass plays each game," said the Veer-T coach.

But this week Donahue will be holding his breath to see if his lecture during halftime of last week's game with Arizona regarding sloppy play means anything.

"I was concerned about our ball handling," said the new Bruin head man. "We hadn't been handling it well. But we did a fine job in the second half against Arizona. I just hope it continues."

UCLA has won both its games impressively — 28-10 over Arizona State and 37-9 over the Wildcats, overcoming an error-filled first half last week.

Donahue said Air Force Coach Ben Martin always has a defensive squad that's difficult to attack, "because he throws so many different defenses at you."

"I guess he (Martin) figures he doesn't get the kind of kid who is as physical as they get at other schools, but he feels his players are innately more intelligent and can handle complex defenses," said a source close to the Bruin program.

Martin's defenses have limited two foes to 100 yards per game rushing. But the Bruins have three men averaging nearly that figure themselves.

The Air Force is led by quarterback Rob Shaw, who has completed 34 of 65 passes for 428 yards and has run for 34 additional yards.

The Bruins are heavily favored to win. But an upset isn't out of the question in view of what happened last year.

UCLA was also favored to win last year but the Falcons rose to the occasion and earned a 20-20 tie. And that came as part of a 2-8-1 Air Force record against a team that was to wind up the season 9-2-1.

MSAC, Chaffey seek victories

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Both Mt. San Antonio and Chaffey will be trying to stay unbeaten tonight against a pair of tough opponents.

The Mounties, 2-0 on the young season, will be hosting Glendale City College at Memorial Stadium tonight at 7:30 p.m. Chaffey, 1-0 under rookie coach Mike Merandi, will be traveling south to play Imperial Valley JC. That contest has been slated for Brawley High's field after Imperial's stadium was flooded during the recent rain storms.

Like MSAC, the Chaffey-Imperial contest is set to start at 7:30 p.m.

Actually, the Panthers will have two things to worry about this evening. Imperial Valley is reportedly stronger than last year when it nipped Chaffey 19-17.

Chaffey will also have to concern itself with the weather, as flash flooding in the low desert area has made travel south hazardous. Another violent rain storm in the area early today could wash the game out entirely.

Assuming the Panthers are able to play, IVC should provide Merandi's squad a stern test.

"They were one of the most physical teams we faced last year," Merandi recalls. "The combination of our young team, a four-hour bus ride to Brawley and the fact we know nothing about them could pose some problems for us.

"We're going to have to play better than we did against Southwest L.A. last week if we're going to win," Merandi continued.

The Chaffey coach indicated that the quarterback spot is still up for grabs. Damien's Mike Garcia played most of the Southwest contest, completing nine of 17 passes. Garcia also rushed for 50 yards.

The other Panther quarterback, Upland's Bob Dalquest, played in only two series against Southwest, completing one of three aerials.

"We have no idea at this stage who the starter will be," Merandi said. "The choice will be made through observations of practices, game effort and leadership."

The rest of the Panther offensive backfield seems set with halfback Randy Campbell and fullback Dominic Licavoli. Gary Carr (Upland) and Dan Hobbs (Chino) are subs.

MSAC will tackle a tough Glendale squad tonight at home.

"Glendale reminds me of a JC version of USC," Mountie coach Mal Eaton said. "Their whole coaching staff is comprised of ex-USC players and they run the same type of offense and defense that the Trojans do.

"They are a well-balanced team and are very poised. They were down 24-6 last week to a good Santa Monica team and came right back to win 29-24. It will be a tough contest for us tonight."

CHAUNCEY ABNEY . . .
Mountie flanker

Eaton does not plan any major changes in the MSAC starting elevens on offense or defense.

Brian Bethke will start at quarterback, with Dana Hutchinson (95 yards rushing in two games) and Mike Hill (141 yards on the ground) in the backfield.

The wide receivers will be Tom Peterssen (seven receptions for 68 yards) and Chauncey Abney (two catches for 39 yards). Don Warren will be the Mountie tight end.

The Mounties defense continues to impress Eaton.

Linebackers Brian Anderson, Mike Zamora and Jay Giangrogorio have all looked impressive, as has a secondary of Nap Sparks, Jerome Covington, Jim LaBouf and Dave Pearce.

Eaton has also been high on the play of defensive tackle Ben Lopez, who was MSAC's defensive player of the week for his efforts in the Mounties' win over PCC last Saturday.

Claremont to face Glendora tonight

Coach Esper Keiser of Claremont High will see a familiar face across the football field when the Wolfpack hosts Glendora at Citrus College tonight at 7:30 p.m.

Across the way will be former Claremont star Bryan Shaw, in his second game as head coach of the Tartans.

Shaw was a running back and defensive back for Claremont just a decade ago while Keiser was the line coach for the 'Pack. Len Cohn was then Claremont's head grid coach. Shaw went on to star at Long Beach State.

Both Glendora and Claremont lost their openers last week. Shaw's head coaching debut was spoiled by a 33-27 loss to St. Francis and Keiser's squad fell to Bonita, 31-7.

Glendora is a member of the Sierra League, widely conceded to be the toughest football league in the CIF Southern Section.

Senior Steve Hunt, Glendora's fullback, stands 6-foot-3 and weighs 235 pounds. He led the team in rushing the past two years.

Shaw considers quarterback Steve Eriksen to be a fine passer, so the 'Pack can expect to see the ball in the air.

Keiser was pleased with several of his players' performances last week against Bonita. "Grant Warhurst ran very well and Chris Pruitt passed quite well," said the Claremont coach.

"Robert Villanueva and Robbie Poling went both ways on the line and looked very good and the defensive backfield — Steve Tipping, Dave Anderson and Scott Kegans — were our top tacklers."

Keiser is hoping that sophomore Kevin Britton, who has been hampered by an injury, will be able to debut at tailback tonight.

Pro stockers visit Irvine

EAST IRVINE — One of the most impressive fields of Pro Stock drivers ever gathered on the West Coast will be in competition tonight at Orange County International Raceway in the first-ever United States Pro Stock Championships.

International Raceway Parks has put together a two-race Pro Stock series that will feature every top driver in the popular manufacturers' division. O.C.I.R. will lead off the series tonight and Fremont Raceway in Northern California will conclude the two-race extravaganza on Sunday (October 3).

The U.S. Pro Stock Championships will feature two divisions with the specially-prepared "Run what you Brung" Match Race class, and the National Hot Rod Association-legal Pro Stockers. In addition to the Pro Stock divisions, Orange County's Championships will also have the first West Coast appearance of the exciting "Spirit of '76" Rocket Funny Car, driven by Sammy Miller. Miller's exotic flopper has recorded times in the five-second category and at speeds over 250 miles per hour.

Leading the list of Pro Stock entries for the NHRA cars at O.C.I.R. will be one of drag racings most popular competitors, Bill "Grumpy" Jenkins of Malvern, Pa. The team of Jenkins and driver Larry Lombardo have been dominating the Midwest with their "Grumpy's Toy" Monza. Lombardo currently holds the N.H.R.A. elapsed time record at 8.57 seconds. Joining Jenkins and Lombardo at Orange County will be U.S. Nationals champion Wally Booth of Berkeley, Mich. in his popular American Motors AMC, NHRA. Top Speed record holder Warren Johnson of Fridley, Minn., Pacific Southwest Pro Stock Champion Lee Hunter of Irvine and popular "Dandy" Dick Landy of Northridge.

Broncos to host S.F. St.

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

Cal Poly meets another team from the dreaded Far Western Conference tonight but Coach Andy Vinci can at least be happy this one is on the friendly confines of Kellogg Field.

San Francisco State is this evening's gridiron opponent for a 7:30 p.m. kickoff and Vinci is hopeful his Broncos can record their first victory of the 1976 campaign.

Poly is 0-1-1 for the campaign after last week's 28-7 defeat at UC Davis. And with three consecutive Saturdays out of state coming up next on the schedule, a win tonight is a must for survival purposes.

The loss at Davis was Vinci's third in his two-plus seasons at Poly to Far Western Conference opponents on the road. In each case, the Bronco mentor returned home muttering about the officiating.

Vinci shouldn't have any trouble getting his team ready for the Golden Gators. San Francisco State handed Vinci his first loss at Poly two years ago by scoring 15 points in the fourth quarter for a stunning 21-17 upset victory.

The combination of playing the only home game in a five-week stretch plus the revenge factor should provide some motivation.

"We usually play well at home," Vinci said.

In checking the records since he became coach, it was discovered Poly is 7-1-3 at Kellogg Field and 4-7-1 on the road. The first home contest this year ended in a 10-10 deadlock with Cal State Fullerton.

Vinci is hoping his team will display its talents tonight. The first two games have been marred by turnovers on offense and penalties on defense.

"We haven't been able to put it all together," Vinci said. "We're able to generate our offense, but we just have not been able to hold on to the football. We're a better team than we have shown."

San Francisco State is a good team for Poly to play this week. The Gators run the veer offense as do future opponents Mississippi State, North Texas State and Northern Arizona.

"We'll see the veer six straight weeks," Vinci said.

San Francisco State brings an 1-1 record to Pomona.

The Gators lost to Cal State Northridge, 14-9, and defeated Oregon Tech, 20-0.

There is some question who will start at quarterback tonight for S.F. State.

Jim Jarvis is the regular QB but he injured his arm in practice and his status for tonight's game is unknown. If he can't make it, either Tom DeRego or Rich Palmer will get the starting assignment.

Gator Coach Vic Rowen likes to throw the ball and he has a top notch receiver in Ed August, who caught 37 passes and seven touchdowns last year.

Running back Gary Shupe is another Gator Poly must watch. Shupe carried the ball 11 times for 97 yards last week at Oregon Tech besides completing a pass for 22 yards and averaging 44.6 yards on his punts.

Vinci is making several changes in Poly's starting lineup.

Because of injuries, Gaylon Ratliff will probably start in place of Lonnie Carr at the flanker spot. Center Larz Malony and defensive tackle John Medlin are also both doubtful because of sprains.

Freshman BobTaylor (6-3, 257) from Palmdale figures to be the starting center while Rich Force (6-3, 225), a transfer from Saddleback College, will try to take Medlin's place.

Vinci also announced that Ron Jones will open at tailback with quarterback Leo Costa, fullback Brent Partridge, split end Teddy Myles and tight end Jay Johnson.

Corona sets midget race

CORONA — Redland's Roy Cook, Jr. heads the USRC midget contingent at Corona Raceway tonight. The card will be the sixth of the season on the Corona half-mile dirt, with Cook scoring victories in three prior races and the other two having gone to Chris Cumberworth of Santa Ana and Billy Felts of San Bernardino.

Roy has virtually sewed up the 1976 title and should become the first back-to-back champion since the late Lowell Sachs took honors in 1967 and 1968. Clancy Wright of Orange, Cook's car owner, also has a big lead with his VW powered midget.

Second place driver Danny McKnight of La Verne has made an attempt of late to challenge Cook's supremacy, but time is running out and barring complete collapse of the Wright racer or injury to Roy, he should win the coveted crown handily. He leads McKnight 1070 to 741.

RICKY BELL . . . Ready for Purdue

Football time for SCIAC teams

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

La Verne College, Claremont-Mudd and Pomona-Pitzer all open their 1976 football seasons this afternoon or tonight.

The Stags get things underway this afternoon (1:30 p.m.) hosting St. Mary's. La Verne and Pomona-Pitzer each have night games with 7:30 p.m. starts.

The Leopards open on the road against a conference foe in a non conference game. Coach Roland Ortmayer takes his defending co-conference champions to Whittier.

The game will not count in conference standings. The same teams play their conference game at La Verne, Oct. 23.

"Right now I like it," Ortmayer remarked when asked about playing an SCIAC opponent twice. "It counts in your overall season record but not in the conference. When we play them again (Oct. 23) I don't know what my feelings will be."

Pomona-Pitzer, which will also play the Leos twice, hosts Christian Heritage of San Diego at Alumni Field.

Christian Heritage, a private liberal arts school, is only five years old.

La Verne will be playing a team (Whittier) that already has gone through its season-opening pains. The Poets beat St. Mary's 14-7 last week at Moraga.

"We played a good game," coach John Godfrey said. "We dominated play and our defense really took it to them."

Ortmayer hasn't seen his team in game conditions. "La Verne has always been pretty tough to move the ball on," Ortmayer commented. "I think we'll put something together.

"Offensively I think we're ahead of where we were last year at this time because of Randy (Brown). He came on so fast last year."

Ortmayer was referring to his senior quarterback. Brown "arrived" as a quarterback in the Ortmayer system last year. He wound up with 91 of 185 passes completed for 1228 yards and six touchdowns.

Gone are backfield stars Curtis Frick and Roy Vander-Kallan. In their stead are Brad Frick and Ben Morrow. "Brad and Ben have been with us so we're not starting from scratch," Ort noted. "They're pretty good."

Ted Pedvin returns to give Brown an excellent target. Steve Hines replaces Randy Jackson at tight end. Glen Mayer takes over for Roger Hanawalt at center.

The Leopards will feature three members of the Hines family this year. Ben coaches defense. One son, Steve, is on offense and another, Bruce, is a defensive back.

Claremont-Mudd has 12 freshmen on its 40-man squad. Like La Verne, the Stags will be facing a team (St. Mary's) that already has played a game.

"We've spent the last couple of weeks in team workouts or scrimmages," said coach John Zinda. "I'd say we look pretty good, but we won't know until we perform under game conditions."

Sophomore quarterback Carl Bostic will run the Stags' offense. He'll be flanked by running backs Tim Goodwin and Jim Reed who rushed for a total of 637 yards last year.

At Pomona-Pitzer, coach Walt Ambord is hoping to get off to a quick start since the Sagehens went winless last year.

This will be the first time C. H. has played a four-year school. It played eight-man football the last two years. It lost its opener last week, 51-0, to Edwards AFB.

Trojans try Boilermakers

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue proved last year it could stop Ricky Bell, but this year the Boilermakers would rather have a victory.

Bell, the 6-foot-2, 218-pound tailback for Southern California, led the nation in rushing last year with an average of nearly 171 yards per game.

Against Purdue, he had only 89 — the only time all season he was held under 100 yards — but the Trojans won 19-6.

"You just can't send your whole team or a part of it against one player," said Purdue Coach Alex Agase, looking to Saturday's return match at Ross-Ade Stadium.

"You have to try to force him into your people, but there's no telling where he's gonna run. The key to stopping any runner is team pursuit — gang tackling."

The Trojans, stung by an opening-game loss to Missouri, roared back with a 53-0 pasting of Oregon last week as Bell gained 193 yards and scored four touchdowns.

"I know we'll have a tremendous opponent in USC," Agase said. "Against Missouri, there were a lot of mistakes by USC, but they were back on track last week, I'll tell you."

"We know quarterback Vince Evans has a strong arm and is capable of running. USC also has a fine offensive line, and that helps make a good running back a great one."

"They sure are big," he added. "I don't know if they will be the biggest line we'll face this season, but I'd hate to envision going against bigger ones. If there are any, they must be giants."

After an opening-game victory over Northwestern, Purdue was shut out 23-0 last week by Notre Dame, a game in which Boilermaker receivers dropped a flock of key passes.

"We just didn't execute skills well last Saturday," Agase said. "That's going to improve, because I know we're better than that."

There will be no immediate changes in the Purdue lineup because of last week's performance, he said. "These guys we have, I have confidence in them," Agase said. "It'll stay the way it is, because I do have confidence in them."

First-year Coach John Robinson says the Trojans will have to keep Purdue off-balance in order to win, even with Bell's devastating running threat.

"I just don't think you take the ball with them and cram it right down their throat. Purdue is a big, strong, physical team and they think in terms of stopping you."

Sagehens open soccer season

The 10 a.m. game will be played at the Sagehens' Merritt Field. There is no admission charge.

Last year Pomona-Pitzer and Claremont-Mudd shared the SCIAC championship, but the 'Hens edged the Stags, 1-0, for the NAIA District III title.

Subsequently, Simon Fraser defeated the Sagehens, 2-0 for the Area One championship. P-P ended the season with a 15-4 record.

Coach Charles Seward has all but two of last year's starters back. Striker Tom Moore and goalkeeper Brad Kraft have graduated.

"We'll have a stronger team than last year," promised Seward. "The players are much more confident than last year and won't be in awe of any of the tough teams we play."

American escapes North Viet prison

By NEAL ULEVICH
Associated Press Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Arlo Gay, a bushy-bearded American businessman jailed in North Vietnam for helping the Central Intelligence Agency, said today he broke out of prison, spent almost a month trying to get to Laos and finally surrendered after four days in a monsoon downpour.

Gay, 52, who arrived in Bangkok on Tuesday from Saigon, acknowledged trying to help the CIA evacuate politically important Vietnamese civilians as Communist forces overran the country in April, 1975.

He said that was his only CIA mission, and it wasn't successful. Skippering a leaky escape boat, he found open sea where a U.S. aircraft carrier was supposed to be. An attempt to flag down a rescue helicopter in the Mekong River delta failed when Communist forces converged on Gay's fish processing barge, a business venture of his that was to be used as a helicopter landing pad for the evacuation.

"One kid with a gun told me, 'You come to wrong place,' and I had to agree with him," said Gay, who had been in business in Vietnam for 10 years. "They classified me as military, as a spook (spy)."

Gay said he was taken to the Ca Mau peninsula, the southernmost part of South Vietnam.

"They chained me with leg irons in a bamboo monkey cage, he continued. "It was ridiculous. They thought they had a prize. They were disappointed."

Days later he was moved to Can Tho, the capital of the Mekong Delta, then flown by helicopter to Hanoi and a military prison about 40 miles from the North Vietnamese capital.

Gay, a native of Tacoma, Wash., said he was treated well in the prison, with a private cell containing table, chair, bed of wooden slats and a single light bulb. He was fed twice daily "on pork fat and rice — you become acclimated to the fact that you're lucky to have it."

He never saw another Westerner in his 18 months in prison and rarely had a chance to speak with the Vietnamese inmates. He also noticed that security was becoming lax as the months wore on.

In June, he said, he wrote a letter to the camp commander protesting his isolation and declaring his innocence. The response was explosive.

"Camp officers accused me of aiding enemies of the revolution to leave the country. That put me in the same category as Nixon, they said.

"They told me, 'You may be here one year, you may be here for two years, you may be here for five years and you may be here for the rest of your life.'

"I guess they didn't realize they came on so strong. But afterward I was in a state of shock. I was 52 years old and didn't want to spend the rest of my life there.

"I broke the door loose and just took my chances on missing the roving guard. I had food that I had saved up, some dried rice and other things. They let me keep my watch so I knew the time. The moon was full so I could navigate and move at night."

Then the moon waned, traveling at night became impossible, and Gay began to risk daylight as he tried to get to Laos. He did not know that Communist forces had taken over that country, too.

"I didn't realize that a person can't move in a Communist country without being seen," he reported. "People began to spot me. Then the authorities started moving in."

Monsoon rains soaked him and his feet began bothering him.

"After four days of steady rain I tried to figure the best way to turn myself in without being shot," he said.

He surrendered to peasants of a hill tribe and discovered he'd walked no more than 30 miles from the prison.

"I was back in prison the next afternoon," Gay swent on.

"When I got back, the camp commander asked my why in the world I escaped when they were going to let me go anyway. Of course, I didn't believe them then.

"Then the commander said, 'Please be good now, we want to get you out of this country whole. But if you escape again you're going to get shot, right in the neck.'"

It was then early August. Gay didn't know it, but Hanoi had released about 40 Americans and their dependents from Saigon on Aug. 1.

"By Aug. 10 I was reasonably sure they wanted to let me go," he said.

Early in September he was flown to Saigon, and as his departure for Bangkok approached, Gay said he asked an interrogator if he really thought he was an agent.

"There was a pause, then he said, 'If you were a spy or agent, we would know.'"

Old machines balk computer crime war

LOS ANGELES: each day."

The main problem in combatting computer crime is the machines themselves, experts in the field agree.

"The older generations (models) were not built with security in mind," says Larry Thomas, director of data security programs for IBM, the world's largest computer manufacturer. "However, we're now seeing this is an emerging problem and are focusing on this. But in terms of offering a 100 per cent safe system, that's not possible today and may never be possible."

Thomas hastens to add that IBM now builds in a variety of safeguards, including "passwords" and controls that limit what any one individual can tell a computer to do. He won't discuss specifics, but says the newer computers have systems that will automatically notify a security officer if a programmer tries to do something he shouldn't. IBM has sent out more than 400,000 pamphlets dealing with computer security, Thomas says, another indication of the size of the problem.

One man who proved that computers have Achilles' heels is Jerry Schneider, who was able to order more than $9,000 worth of equipment from Pacific Telephone simply by punching a series of numbers on his touch telephone. Schneider, who pulled the stunt while a UCLA student in 1970, is now a consultant on computer crime.

He and the telephone company reached an understanding, with the aid of a judge, whereby Pacific Telephone dropped charges against him "under the condition that I wouldn't screw around with their computer anymore." In what could only be termed "shotgun consultancy," the judge also required Schneider to work with Pacific Telephone to prevent future ordering incidents.

"Computers just aren't designed with security in mind," says Schneider, now 25, "Computer thieves look for the weak links and then use them to order payment of checks, withdraw information on clients and so on."

Withdrawal of confidential information and embezzlement through the doctoring of computer records are two of the most common forms of computer crime, says Parker. Another is secret use of a computer by a time-sharing customer who taps into a main computer from his own terminal but successfully tells the computer to look the other way.

Parker says there's a fourth category in which the computer itself is the victim.

"I have four cases where computers were shot with guns," he says. "One was in Melbourne, Australia, where some politically violent people took out after a Honeywell computer with a shotgun and did terrible things to it." (The gunmen were demonstrating against Honeywell's involvement in munitions manufacturing.)

In another case, Parker says, a frustrated computer programmer drew a pistol and put five shots into the machine's console.

"He shot it right between the bits (indicator lights)," Parker says. "Computers kind of do that to people sometimes."

House fly 'crazy' art

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Art doesn't have to make sense, says the artist who plans to stick a big black cardboard house fly with a 16-foot wing span atop a city water tower.

That is how artist Horst Leissi explained the "Sacramento fly" when he went before the City Council seeking permission to hang his creation on a water tower near downtown.

One councilman called it "a crazy idea," and another jokingly described it as "a monument to the good taste" of the community.

Unisex drive draws fewer policewomen

By MIKE DUNSTAN
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Unisex," a special hiring program begun by Los Angeles police in 1973 to give women the same chances as men for field patrol positions, has led to a decrease in policewomen, officials say.

Police Cmdr. Peter Hagan says the decrease in policewomen stems from the females' failure to pass police height, physical training and agility tests. He says they would be better off in less demanding areas of police work.

"I think they (women) are physically incapable of performing some of the duties required of field patrol officers," said Hagan. "Prior to Unisex the LAPD had a very good program for women. They were utilized in the juvenile detail, in the jail, and in the detective area.

"There is a place for women in police work, but it is not out in the radio car."

However, critics are testing the legality of the requirements in a multi-million dollar civil rights suit against the city alleging that the requirements — particularly those for height and physical agility — discriminate against women.

In the past three years, Unisex has produced 24 female police officers where before there were none. They trained with male recruits, passing the same height, agility and physical training tests.

However, one year before the program was instituted there were 159 women on the force, compared to 6,986 men. Now there are 152 policewomen and 7,504 men.

Attorney Timothy Flynn, representing plaintiff Fanchon Blake, a retired LAPD sergeant, and four other policewomen in the sex discrimination suit, calls the Unisex program a failure that permits continued sex discrimination against women.

"Unisex has been a very bad joke," said Flynn. "For the last six consecutive years, the number of women on the Los Angeles police force has been decreasing, while all other major police departments in the country have been increasing the number of women."

The two main issues in the dispute are the police department's minimum five-feet-four-inch height standard for men and women, and a physical agility test that applicants must pass.

Police officials say the standards are necessary to ensure the safety of officers and citizens in case of violence. The critics say height and physical agility have little or no bearing on the performance of duties, serving mainly as a tool to exclude women from police field duty.

"Patrolmen, in only about two per cent of the situations, need to use force," said Hagan. "But when you have to use it, what is (a woman) going to do? Call back to the station to ask for muscle?

"I think that you're going to see a long period of no increase in policewomen on a proportional basis (with men). If we slacken our standards, then you'll see an increase."

Flynn, however, called police patrol work "sedentary in nature," with one of its biggest drawbacks being patrol personnel getting overweight and out of condition. "And it's kind of peculiar," said Flynn, "that you demand a certain level of upper body strength in the selection process of the job, but never test for it again."

Flynn said the physical agility test — which includes scaling a six-foot high wall — eliminates about 90 per cent of all female police patrol applicants, "while the height standard eliminates nearly all the rest."

But Hagan says there is a height requirement because troublemakers would rather fight with a short officer than a tall one.

"A short person, whether male or female, is an invitation to trouble," Hagan said.

Pests abide in tropical storm's wake

OCOTILLO, Calif. (AP) — Mosquitoes swarming around wrecked septic tanks, pools of stagnant water and decaying animal carcasses are posing a new threat for Imperial Valley towns as they dig out from the debris left by Tropical Storm Kathleen last week.

A public health hazard has been declared by Rudy Medina, director of Imperial County's Office of Emergency Services in El Centro.

"We have homes in mud and sand up to 10 feet deep," Medina said. "The average house has about six feet of sand in it."

At least 30 houses were uninhabitable and "some of the houses have been washed off their foundations," he said. "Others are broken in half."

Medina said crews were opening temporary dumps and "burying all the perishable waste we can find to avoid an epidemic."

Mosquitoes are infesting the entire county, which was left spotted with pools of stagnant floodwater, he said.

Ocotillo, a retirement town of 450 persons in the foothills of the Laguna Mountains, was hardest hit when last week's storm sent walls of water rushing down mountainsides into desert communities. El Centro, about 30 miles east of Ocotillo, and Palm Desert, south of Palm Springs, also suffered heavy damage.

All highways into the El Centro area were washed out, many having large sections of roadway torn away by the surging waters. Some were closed for several days.

Eight San Diego-based trucking companies estimated their extra costs at $30,000 after rerouting cargoes for a week. The normal two-hour driving time between San Diego and El Centro stretched to 3½ as temporary side roads were put into use.

In 50 locations, track of the San Diego & Arizona Western Railway Co., a division of Southern Pacific, was buried or left hanging in air along a 24-mile stretch from Jacumba to Ocotillo. No decision has been made whether to rebuild the line, in use since 1917, or abandon it.

No passengers use the railroad, but until the storm two trains daily used the track to deliver aircraft parts, lumber, beer, wheat for export, fabricated steel, tuna and dog food.

The flood waters at one point were so forceful they swept away two-ton boulders, knocking out foot-long chunks of concrete from the Myers Creek brige on Interstate 8. A new channel up to 400 yards wide was carved in the desert foothills.

WEST ISLIP, N.Y. (AP) — From the time their only son was born, Kenneth and Ann Curley wanted him to be a West Pointer. They were not disappointed.

They wanted to savor his successes — the medals, the awards and the trophies. Again they were not disappointed.

They wanted him to be a leader, at the top of his class. He was.

Now he is a convicted West Point cheater, and Ken and Ann Curley say it is the worst thing that's happened since they lost one of their five children to crib death syndrome.

The cheating charge has created what Mrs. Curley calls a "living nightmare" of recriminations from their family, pointed comments from friends and telephone calls from cranks.

The plaques on the walls of their modest Long Island home are a testament to the hopes they had — still have — for Kenneth Jr., a strapping lacrosse and football player whom all four service academies courted.

He was once among the most promising leaders at West Point and in line to become fourth-ranking cadet in the entire corps.

New campaign launched to limit officials pay

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The group seeking to limit the salaries of state and local politicians in California is back with another petition campaign, says Secretary of State March Fong Eu.

Ms. Eu announced Thursday that the "Elected Officials Compensation Initiative" has been permitted to circulate petitions. It needs 499,846 signatures of registered voters by Feb. 11, 1977 to qualify for the statewide ballot in June 1978.

The proposal would amend the state Constitution to limit salaries and expenses of elected officials to what they were on Jan. 15, 1975.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're not apt to have too much luck today in getting others to do your bidding. You'll be far better off if you fend for yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In hopes of bettering your lot today, you might take a foolish gamble basically opposed to your more conservative instincts.

AT&T ordered to file new rate schedules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has ordered American Telephone & Telegraph Co. to file within eight months new rate schedules for some of its specialized services.

In issuing the order Thursday, the commission did not make any estimate of its effect on users, mostly business and commercial firms. The commission noted that some of the current rates may be reasonable.

The major categories affected are the long-distance Message Telecommunications Service, Wide Area Tleecommunications Service, and private line service, a bulk-rate private line offering known as Telpak.

An AT&T spokesman said the company was in total disagreement with the commission's position, and that the issue merits congressional action. A House panel starts hearings next week.

The spokesman added that the likely result of the FCC order would be higher charges for home telephone service to make up for lost revenue.

Telpak is widely used by news services in distribution of their copy to newspapers and other media. MTS and WATS are employed by business and commercial concerns.

The commission directed AT&T to file new rate schedules "reflecting the full costs of providing service, in accordance with guidelines established by the FCC." The decision was based largely on consideration of various methods of accounting of AT&T's costs.

In the case of the schedule used mostly by news services, the commission found "that Telpak as presently structured was unjustly discriminatory and did not constitute a proper competitive response to the realities of the presence of competition in the marketplace from private microwave and other carriers."

Remark in Watergate book

Dean says Ford may have had problems with campaign funds

PLAINS, Ga.(AP) — When Gerald R. Ford was House Republican leader he may have had some problems with unreported campaign contributions, says John W. Dean III, quoting a 1972 conversation with chief White House lobbyist William E. Timmons.

The remark about Ford is contained in Dean's book about Watergate to be published next month under the title "Blind Ambition." Dean was the young White House counsel whose testimony against President Richard M. Nixon in the Watergate coverup case eventually led to Nixon's resignation.

Timmons, the supposed source of the Ford story, was quoted Thursday as denying Dean's account. The White House said President Ford would have no comment.

In the excerpt, Dean recounts efforts by the Nixon White House to block a Watergate investigation by the late Rep. Wright Patman's House Banking and Currency Committee.

During the summer and fall of 1972 — while the Nixon reelection campaign was under way — Patman was seeking subpoena power to enable his committee to call White House and Nixon campaign aides in an effort to look into the Watergate case.

Dean says he asked White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman how to "turn Patman off" and Haldeman told him:

"Call (Treasury Secretary John) Connally. He may know some way to stop Patman. And tell Timmons to keep on Jerry Ford's ass. He knows he's got to produce on this one." Connally and Patman were both Texans. Timmons was chief lobbyist for the White House.

Dean said he called Connally and was told that Patman might have some campaign contributions that the congressman had not reported and would not want exposed.

"Timmons, who met regularly with Jerry Ford," Dean wrote, "had explored with him Connally's suggestion about Patman. 'What do you think?' I asked Timmons. 'Do you think we ought to dig into this stuff?'

"'Well, John, you know this is kind of sensitive,' said Timmons, 'and I talked to Jerry about it. Jerry doesn't think it would be such a good idea. And, frankly, I'll tell you the problem is that, uh, Jerry himself might have some problems in this area, and so might some of our guys on the committee. I don't think we ought to open this up.'

'I see. I guess that scraps that.'

'Yeh, I guess it does.'"

The excerpt does not say when the problem contributions may have been made or whether they were illegal.

Before April 7, 1972, when a major campaign finance reform law took effect, it was common practice for candidates to skirt the reporting requirements. One widely used loophole was the creation of a campaign committee in the District of Columbia, which did not require congressional candidates to report individual contributions.

Candidates could thus accept funds from sources that might prove embarassing in their home districts — such as lobbyists for special interests or labor unions — and deposit the funds in their D.C. committee accounts. Their regular campaign committees at home could then accept a transfer of funds from the D.C. committee, and the original source of the money would not show up in campaign finance reports.

At his vice presidential confirmation hearings in November 1973, Ford told the Senate Rules and Administration Committee, "I never talked with the President about it, or with Mr. Haldeman, Mr. (John D.) Ehrlichman and Mr. Dean. I know emphatically I had no conversation with them now."

State welfare costs cut, says administrative chief

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Brown administration's welfare director says the Democratic governor is better at cutting welfare administrative costs than his Republican predecessor, Ronald Reagan.

In the last year, administrative costs have been cut nearly $31 million from earlier projections, and the state has slashed its payment error rate, Marion Woods, state Benefit Payments chief, said Thursday.

Woods said at a news conference that the savings contrasted with an increase in administrative costs under Reagan's touted welfare reforms.

"Some of the welfare reforms brought increased complexity, resulting in high administrative costs," Woods said.

While the Brown administration has eliminated many of the Reagan measures, Woods said, it has also helped and encouraged counties to institute a series of efficiency measures.

They included many county hiring freezes and some layoffs, increased caseworker productivity from Los Angeles and other counties that were below the statewide average, group screening of welfare applicants on their first visit to an office, and some streamlined procedures such as a shortened application form.

Woods said the measures weren't aimed at reducing benefits, which have continued to climb over the past year: from $1.5 billion to $1.7-1.8 billion in Aid to Families with Dependent Children, and from $436 million to $471 million in food stamps.

He said the savings affected the cost of running the programs — now $199 million in AFDC and $62 million in food stamps — and also the rate of overpayment and underpayment, which has gotten California into trouble with the federal government in the past.

Art center is epitome of design

. . . Story on pages 4-5

Doc Peirsol

It happened in Pomona

Pomonans were a healthy lot in the year 1908. And certainly they should have been! For in addition to having available a goodly number of doctors ever ready to make house calls, there were other rather unique ways utilized by our stalwart forefathers in order to keep themselves hale, hearty and happy.

Just how serious a threat it was to Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound we will probably never know, but it is a matter of record that in those early, 1900s here in Pomona at least, Mother Gray's Australian Leaf was being advertised as a pleasant herb relief for women's ills. — And that wasn't the only wonder remedy available to Pomonans in the year 1908. For both men and women who were plagued with rheumatic pains, another advertisement appearing in the Pomona Progress advised that a few days spent at the Bimini Hot Springs Hotel in Los Angeles would be, "The most curative treatment known for rheumatism." And what a hotel that Bimini must have been. It promosed hot springs water in every room; insisted there would be "no noise, no dust," and best of all, "NO TIPS."

However, for Pomonans who just needed to get away from it all for a few days in order to calm their jumping nerves, "Osmer's Solid Comfort" was the place to go. Osmer's was also advertising in The Pomona Progress in the year 1908, pointing out that it was, "The third tent city on the beach west of Long Beach — The only place on the beach with shade and flowers — and new tent houses are furnished for housekeeping." — But perhaps the thing about Osmer's Solid Comfort that proved the most effective in calming Pomonans with bad cases of nerves was its statement of terms. They were listed as starting at $4 per week.

An old English boot rack

By Dorothy Hammond

QUESTION: The purpose of this piece of furniture is unknown to my family. It was discovered in the storage attic of a home my parents bought several years ago. Feeling it was not of value, no one bothered to clean it up until this summer. After removing layers of grime from its surface — and with the aid of scratch wax — I learned that the wood is mahogany. The piece is 42 inches high, 36 wide and 14 inches deep. The only nails used in its construction are brass, and these were used to secure a small brass hook below each of the acorn finials. Have you any ideas where this piece of furniture was made or when, and its purpose? F.K., Jr.

ANSWER: You have an extremely fine old English boot rack, dating from around the mid-1800s.

QUESTION: Our home s one of the first brick residences built in our city — about 1874. We are rejuvenating the house and are replacing the double-hung windows with stationary insulating units.

Almost all of the window panes are the originals. Is there any market for the distorted-type old glass of this vintage? If so, could you send the names of interested dealers? A.J.S.

ANSWER: No, but I can suggest that you contact antique dealers in your area, as there is a demand for early glass panes.

QUESTION: I collect demitasse spoons, and have one that is marked "Brazil Silver" on the backside, nothing else. Is this type considered to be pure silver as we Americans know it? R.L.

ANSWER: No, the name "Brazil Silver" was used on nickel silverware that was neither sterling nor silver plate.

QUESTION: Would you please tell me the present-day value of a matched pair of Sandwich glass celery vases 10 inches tall? The pattern is "Smocking" and these are mint. They were inherited from my mother's family, but we were never told at the time (1928) of their value. Would you know? G.F.

QUESTION: What is a busk? On occasion I have noted the term in antique trade publications. Then I recently noticed a nicely carved piece of wood shown in a sale catalogue, identified as a "busk." The board was rounded on one end and straight on the other. R.W.

ANSWER: One of the most intimate items made for personal adornment during the 18th century was the "busks" which fitted into long narrow pockets sewed into the fronts of ladies' corsets for the purpose of erect posture at all times. Busks were made of wood or whalebone — and most were handsomely carved. Traditionally, this adornment was the work of absent fishermen on lonely voyages.

QUESTION: Each year our church conducts a sale, asking members to contribute new or used items. Last week, for a small sum, I bought a beautiful pottery vase, never noticing the hallmark until I washed it today. Incised in the base are the markings L.C.T. Favrile Pottery. Could I possibly have a piece made by Tiffany? I'm familiar with the glassware, but not pottery. Have you any information on this ware? Mrs. R.W.

Shelby Lyman on chess

A 'National Chess Day'

Have you heard the news? Oct. 9, 1976 has been designated "National Chess Day." Do you believe that? What will they think of next?

In issuing the proclamation, President Gerald R. Ford put his signature to the following statement: ". . . chess is a game that sharpens the mind, tests human faculties and encourages healthy competition. It has captivated the attention of players and spectators worldwide and will continue to do so as long as competition and excellence challenge mankind."

Right on! Mr. President. But do you know that, a whole bicentennial ago, another American, Benhamin Franklin by name also extolled the royal game in his essay "The Morals of Chess."

Old Ben had this to say: "The game of chess is not merely an idle amusement. Several very valuable qualities of the mind, useful in the course of human life, are to be acquired or strengthened by it, so as to become habits, ready on all occasions. For life is a kind of chess . . ."

I've got an idea. Let's celebrate the Bicentennial and "National Chess Day" with a Gerry Ford-Jimmy Carter chess match! Let the politician win. Who needs debates and elections anyway?

And should the match end in a standoff, let them play backgammon. Can you imagine the headinle: "'snake-eyes' wins the presidency!"

New triumph for young star

Michael Rhode has just enhanced his reputation as one of the best young chess-players in the world by winning the International Youth Tournament in Belgium. Boris Taborov, the Soviet entry finished second.

Pasadena art school close to spectacular

If a school dedicated to teaching fine arts and design were to build its own campus, you would expect it to be handsome, flexible, modern, utilitarian and possibly spectacular.

This is precisely what the Art Center College of Design achieved when it created its new $8.6 million campus high in the hills above Pasadena. The college, with a student body nearing 1,000, moved last February from its former site in the Hancock Park area of Los Angeles to the new low-profile dark steel and bronze glass structure designed by Craig Ellwood Associates, on a 175-acre hillside site overlooking the Rose Bowl.

ACCD was founded as the Art Center School in an abandoned Los Angeles restaurant in 1930 by E.A. "Tink" Adams, now chairman of the board. It expanded into some nearby shops, then took over a former girls' school, seldom achieving the right space and the right location of space for the numerous classrooms, studios and laboratories required.

The new school changes all that. The 166,000 square feet

ON THE COVER

The new $8.6 million campus of the Art Center College of Design, nestled in the hills above Pasadena, offers almost 1,000 students courses in fine arts, design, advertising, photography and other fields. The steel and bronze glass structure is approached by a drive under a large single-span bridge that houses the library and administrative offices.

Many of the student projects involve automobiles, from exterior design to upholstery and dashboards.

New $8.6 million fine arts campus high in the hills

Student projects and art work are exhibited in ACCD's main lounge which doubles as a gallery.

of working area, three times that of the old site, includes classrooms, workshops, laboratories, storage areas, offices, library, bookstore, cafeteria and auditorium. The building's most dramatic feature is a central single-span bridge across a 192-foot canyon connecting the north and south wings. The approach drive to the campus passes under the bridge to the main entrance in the south wing.

A major portion of the capital for the new campus has come from national and international corporations, almost all of which benefit from the work of ACCD's graduates. Its alumni are among the top professionals in industrial and environmental design, advertising, graphic and packaging design, illustration, informational film-making and photography.

Ford, General Motors and Chrysler, for example, where more than 50 per cent of the design staffs have been trained at ACCD, have together contributed almost $2 million. More than $3.5 million in outright gifts and matching funds has been given by the late Sherman M. Fairchild, founder of Fairchild Camera & Instruments and Fairchild Industries.

The faculty of ACCD (more than 140) is made up of practicing designers and artists who continue their own careers while teaching part time.

Most of the students have had two years of college upon entering; many have a bachelor of arts degree. (ACCD offers a master's program.) Classes run for a full day to give students time to develop a concept or complete an assignment. Evening and Saturday classes are also offered. The school is on a trimester program so the student can attend the year round and complete his degree in two years and eight months.

ACCD offers basic academic courses and an impressive program in the fine arts, but most of the classes are geared to the applied arts — advertising design, illustration, graphic design, packaging, photography, cinematography, fashion illustration, model construction, product design and industrial rendering. Recent class projects have been designing TV spots, directional signs for Griffith Park and beach city bikeways, a promotional display for the American Heart Association and emblems for Mayor Thomas Bradley's Dial-a-Ride system. A class under Gaylord Eckles, director of the environmental design program, is creating models for information centers at Expo 81.

ACCD president Don Kubly says, "Our purpose is relatively unique. We are here to prepare young people to fit the needs of society. We want them to contribute to society. We have grown in size, and we have grown in the breadth and depth and scope of what we teach, but our philosophy of education remains the same as in the beginning. We ask the student to know his craft so well that his ideas can be expressed clearly, creatively, instantly and on demand, on the job."

taken as early as 1898; however, examples were not commercially offered until 1905. Some of the pottery was thrown, but the vast majority produced was cast from molds using a white clay which was very high fired. Their pottery line was discontinued between 1917 and 1920. All Tiffany pottery is marked with the incised L.C.T. cipher, in addition to "L.C. Tiffany," "Favrile Pottery," or "Bronze Pottery."

QUESTION: I would like to know the possible value of a brewer's copper funnel, which has a brass spout and ring for hanging. It is dated 1893 and marked "Strater, Boston." C.P.

ANSWER: If in good condition, the value of your brewer's funnel is around $45.

QUESTION: I have a lovely old teapot and a matching stand or pedestal (hollow), can you tell me where it was made and when? We purchased this unique tea warmer when in California last year as a memento of our trip. Mrs. F.O.A.

ANSWER: You have a small "veilleuse" or night lamp, designed for bedside use in warming drinks. The name derives from the French "veiller" — to keep a night vigil. Originally, the term referred to a night lamp — but soon became known as any ceramic vessel that consisted of a hollow pedestal containing a small lamp on which sits a covered bowl or teapot. A variety of shapes were produced — especially in German-speaking countries. But because of their popularity, potteries throughout Europe adapted the form.

Your "veilleuse" was made by the W. Guerin & Company at Limoges, France, during the present century.

QUESTION: My husband collects toby mugs. I have had an opportunity to purchase an unusual example from a local shop, but haven't the slightest idea of value. This is an American Belleek mug dated 1896. It is six inches tall and is decorated with the figure of George Washington. I would like to purchase this mug for my husband's birthday, and am wondering if $185 is rather high? Can you tell me the average price range for such pieces? This example is perfect. Mrs. D.N.H.

Dogs will love this roomy home

Most doghouses don't allow poor Fido to even turn around inside. The easy-to-follow pattern for making this dog house is laid out in such a way that it may be made small for little dogs, medium for middle-size dogs, and larger for dogs like Lassie.

Since dogs are so unselfish and so very loyal, it seems only fair that we return their faithfulness with kindness. One of the best ways to do this is to furnish them with a suitable home of their own. The handsome dog house shown here has all of the benefits that dogs like. Some of the features are: It protects them from the wind. The front door is suspended from hinges that make it easy to go in and out, yet the door stays closed to keep out drafts when it's cold. In the summer it may be fastened open for ventilation.

The house, like man's, is built up off the ground. That keeps it warm and dry in winter. The roof is adjustable and may be opened in summer as shown. It may be taken completely off for cleaning. Finally, it has a window, something dogs like as much as people.

To obtain the easy-to-follow dog house pattern No. 299, send $2.00 (includes 1st class postage & handling) by cash, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, c/o: Pomona Progress Bulletin Pattern Dept. # Stamps in the news

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newsfeatures

As in recent years, the United States will issue two Christmas stamps — one an art masterpiece with religious motif and the other featuring a contemporary design.

The religious stamp will depict John Singleton Copley's "Nativity" painted 200 years ago. Although the Copley painting was known from engravings and drawings, its location remained a mystery for over 100 years. Then it appeared at an auction in London in 1971, erroneously identified as the work of American artist Benjamin West. When positively identified as the long-lost Copley, it was returned to this country and now hangs in Boston's Museum of Fine Arts.

The Madonna and Child in the painting are surrounded by a group of shepherds and animals. A landscape and rising moon are in the background. Two lines of type appear vertically at the left. The inscription reads: "Christmas 13 cents, Copley, Boston Museum, USA."

The other stamp in the Christmas duo has a design based on a Nathaniel Currier print entitled "Winter Pastime." The stamp is the second Currier lithograph to be reproduced on a U.S. Christmas stamp. His "The Road-Winter" appeared in 1974. The original print is in the Museum of the City of New York.

Details concerning the issue date and the first day city will be announced soon.

Although Canada has issued several stamps in tribute to the recently held Summer Olympic Games in Montreal, its postal department has also hailed other significant national events and subjects this year.

Already issued have been a 20-cent commemorative stamp for HABITAT, the U.N. Conference on Human Settlements; two 8-centers for the Royal Military College Centenary; a 20cent stamp calling attention to the Olympiad for the Physically Disabled held in Etobicoke, Ont.; and a 20-cent adhesive honoring the Iroquois Indians.

Coming up in November will be four Christmas stamps featuring stained glass window designs and a set of four portraying Canadian ships.

Many philatelic experts say the world's most valuable stamp is the British Guiana one-cent black on magenta of 1856. This was corroborated in the 79th edition of Stanley Gibbons' British Commonwealth Catalogue which listed the item as worth 180,000 British pounds — approximately $325,000 (depending on the fluctuating pound rate.) The stamp has jumped in value by 30,000 pounds in just one year. At present it is owned by an American investment syndicate.

STAMP NOTES: Spain has issued a 12-peseta stamp commemorating the visit of the King and Queen to Washington in June. The design shows a vignette of the royal couple facing the European and North American continents.

Balloonist wants to fly across Atlantic

MILBRIDGE, Maine (AP) — Ed Yost, the first man to fly across the English Channel in a hot air balloon, wants to be the first to cross the Atlantic, a trip others have tried and failed.

The 57-year-old Yost, an acknowledged pioneer in the ballooning industry, has brought his equipment to Maine from his South Dakota home to begin weeks of preparation for the flight.

Yost, the owner of a balloon equipment company in Tea, S.D., said Friday it could take up to a month to get ready for the solo flight.

With more than 35 years of aviation experience and 25 years of ballooning behind him, Yost said he feels qualified for the challenge.

A five-man ground crew accompanied Yost to Maine, where they are assembling and testing his hot air balloon, which is 80 feet high and 47 feet wide.

A 12-foot gondola will carry dehydrated food, water, survival equipment, seven radio receivers, eight transmitters and other supplies.

In addition to being the first across the Atlantic, Yost said he wants to break several world records for his balloon class.

He will be out to beat an 89-hour flight mark and a 1,850-mile distance record.

Yost has designed his own balloons and those of other noted balloonists. He built the hot air balloon for the cross-country trip of magazine publisher Malcolm Forbes two years ago.

In 1973, Bob Sparks took off from Trenton Airport, near Bar Harbor, but was forced by thunderstorms to ditch his balloon off the Newfoundland coast. Sparks tried again, but failed, in 1975.

Last June 25, Karl Thomas of Troy, Mich., attempted to cross the Atlantic ocean in an helium-filled balloon. His red, white and blue balloon, dubbed "Spirit of 76," lost radio contact with his ground crew shortly after takeoff from Lakehurst, N.J. Naval Air Station.

Two days after takeoff, the balloon ditched in the Atlantic Ocean. Thomas drifted in a life raft for five days until July 1, when he was rescued by a Soviet fishing trawler.

Fat people can be happy, too says sociologist

CHICAGO (AP) — Fat people can be happy and healthy, says a New York sociologist. And it's time to break disdainful and stereotyped attitudes toward this minority group, she adds.

Bodies come in many shapes and sizes, and one is not necessarily better than another, said Dr. Natalie Allon of Hofstra University, Hempstead, L. I.

"People in this country have a mania about eating and dieting. There is such a panic about being too fat or occasionally too skinny," she said, blaming the fashion industry and advertising for idealizing a "stick figure" and the "walking hanger" look.

Dr. Allon, who has been studying social reactions to overweight people for more than 10 years, recently presented a study of reactions toward fat people at a meeting of U.S. and Canadian nutritionists at Michigan State University.

Not all overweight persons are interested in losing weight and people should be more open "to multiple alternative lifestyles," she said. That means they should not condemn those who are different.

The stigma attached to being fat prevents many fat persons from realizing their potential because their concern over being overweight overshadows their abilities, she says.

Fat people often are mortified and ashamed about their condition and are filled with self-disparagement and self-hatred, she said, adding that they are made to feel like sinners and criminals.

She said that obesity is looked upon in American society as an immoral self-indulgence and lack of willpower; fat people are viewed as sloppy and sick.

Even physicians reflect white middle-class attitudes toward obesity and often are disdainful of overweight patients, she said, and the overweight are discriminated against in jobs and even in some prestigious private colleges which reject fat applicants.

But more subtle reactions also make fat persons feel that they don't fit in, she said.

These include wincing, gossiping, over-staring and refusing to look at them, as well as jokes about them, she said.

Singer voices islands need for revolution

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — For an hour every evening, a grave and cultured Spanish voice is beamed out by Algeria's powerful radio transmitters with a call for revolution against Spain.

The voice belongs to 46-year-old lawyer Antonio Cubillo, the dark-eyed founder, leader and driving force for the independence of the Canary Islands.

Long regarded by Spanish officials as a dreamer, Cubillo has suddenly acquired a certain following in the Canaries, thanks to his persuasive radio voice. He claims that since the death of Spain's longtime ruler Gen. Francisco Franco last year, a growing volume of fan mail and financial contributions has been reaching him from the Canaries and from Canarian exiles living in Spain. Even Canarians in Venezuela and Brazil are responding to the daily broadcasts, he says.

Among the numerous African liberation movements that once had offices in Algiers, Cubillo long suffered from a lack of credibility because he had no effective propaganda outlet.

SOMETHING HE CAN FEEL

by ARETHA FRANKLIN (ATLANTIC RECORDS)

Like so many rhythm and blues singers, Aretha Franklin started out singing gospel at 14 in her father, Rev. C. L. Franklin's New Bethel Baptist Church in Detroit. At 18, she decided to make the switchover to blues. Her first single, "I Never Loved A Man (The Way I Love YOU)" came in 1967, and it was an instant hit and a million-seller. Since that debut success, Aretha has recorded 19 albums (six of them gold-certified) and released 33 singles (14 gold), including hits like "(You Make Me Feel Like) A Natural Woman," "Chain Of Fools," and "I Say A Little Prayer." Today's tune is a Curtis Mayfield composition from the score of "Sparkle", a Warner Bros. movie about three sisters growing up in the Harlem ghetto. You can listen to Aretha sing it on the Atlantic LP, "Sparkle".

TEEN SCOPE

Explorers promoted

Eight members of Law Enforcement Explorer Post 160, sponsored by Pomona Police Department, have been elevated in rank following an extensive examination process.

Those receiving promotional appointments are Tim Romero, from lieutenant to captain; Judy McConnell, from sergeant to lieutenant; Norbert Duran, Theresa Martinez and Lloyd Hines, to sergeant; and Lori Pimental and Mary Gardner to the rank of Explorer Senior Patrolman.

ASSIGNED

Post organization is patterned after the police department. The recently promoted Explorers have been assigned to help supervise other Explorers who are divided into two squads.

All those promoted have been members of the post a year and have been graduated from an Explorer Academy.

In addition to instruction in community relations, criminal law, weaponless defense and patrol procedures, each of the candidates had to participate in a class in supervision.

ASSIST

These include such things as crime prevention campaigns, search missions, report filing and crowd control.

Law Enforcement Post 160 is a non-profit organization chartered by the Boy Scouts of America with the primary purpose of assisting young men and women through actual experience to determine if they would like to pursue careers in law enforcement as adults.

MEMBERSHIP

To qualify for membership into Post 160, an individual must be between 14½ and 19 years of age, have at least a C average in school and be of good moral character without any serious arrest record. Explorer candidates must be of sound health and have the full support of their parents.

Those interested in joining the post may contact Sgt. Art Traber, post adviser, at 620-2121, or Joe V. Romero Jr., cadet-chief's administrative aide, at 620-2141.

SCHOLARSHIP — Luke Stephan Erdoes, 18, a June graduate of Claremont High School, is the recipient of a $2,000 SEIU scholarship. He is attending Stanford University this fall to prepare for a career in medicine.

Girls puff away

Since 1969, a half-million teen-age girls have become smokers, according to a survey by the American Cancer Society.

Four of every 10 girls who smoke use at least one pack of cigarettes a day, the survey shows.

The number of female smokers has steadily increased while the number of male smokers has held steady, which adds to the well-known hazards of smoking a little-known fact: women who smoke spend 15 per cent more days sick in bed than women who don't.

LIFE STYLE

Smokers develop a whole life style built around smoking, from flashy lighters and cigarette boxes to activities that are associated with smoking.

The first thing to do if you want to quit is change these activities.

For example, drinking coffee and smoking often are inseparable, so skip the coffee for a few days. Caffeine in coffee stimulates the desire for nicotine, as does tannin in tea.

DRINK JUICE

Instead of coffee, start the day with orange juice. Ex-smokers often have a craving for sugar and the natural sugar in fruit helps to curb it. It also helps keep weight down while quitting.

QUIT

Information on how to start one is available from community ACS chapters. General information about smoking is available from chapters of Smokenders, Smoke Watch International, the American Health Foundation, the Lung Association and the American Heart Association.

P.C. cheerleaders learn new routines

By SUSAN BERGMANN

The varsity Damien cheerleaders, Lisa Pound, Mary Fran DeFazio and Laura Mello, went to UCSD from July 12-16. They weren't as pleased with the camp as they had been in previous years, but they, along with St. Lucy's cheerleaders, won first place for their routines.

JUNIOR VARSITY

The Junior varsity Damien cheerleaders, Vickie Duffy, JoAnne Rosilez and Laurie Tremblay, went to Pepperdine College in Malibu. They stayed July 29-Aug. 1 and won three awards, a superior and two excellents.

The PC cheerleaders from all classes went to UCSD from Aug. 16-19. The girls are Cathy Carew, Laura Jonousek and Diana Reilly from the senior class; Lily Rifas, Jaria Casas and Cheryl Guitierrez, juniors; and Vicky Borba, Jackie Arias and Teresa Clark, sophomores.

WON AWARDS

They had classes to each them cheers, plus rules for games, how to boogie and other interesting things. They won three awards, an excellent and two superiors.

The songleaders, Lilian Alves, Maria Magistro and Jeanine Tancredi, went to the USA spirit camp at UCLA.

They won nine ribbons.

The cheerleaders for the most part enjoyed themselves very much and learned a lot of new cheers for the school year.

Cal Poly honors Garey grad

Lee W. Davenport, a 1976 graduate of Garey High School in Pomona, has been granted honors at entrance at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo the fall quarter.

He plans to major in architecture.

Davenport was salutatorian of his graduating class last June, and during 1975-76 served as Teen Scope correspondent for Garey High.

Under the guidance of honors English teacher Ginger Friedman, Davenport won national writing honors last year and was a state finalist in the Bicentennial Minute competition.

Medicine is top career choice of bright seniors

Medicine and related fields, therapy, nursing, pharmacy and medical technology, are the leading career choices of some of the nation's best and brightest high school seniors.

Of approximately 1,000 students queried in a poll, 18.4 per cent said they plan a medicine-related career.

The largest number of these, 8.8 per cent, plan to study medicine itself. Nursing was second choice at 3.7 per cent; then medical technology, 2.2 per cent; pharmacy, 1.6 per cent, and various therapy specialities accounted for the remainder.

Results of the poll were announced by General Mills, sponsor of the General Mills Search for Leadership in Family Living, a national educational - scholarship program.

The students graduated last spring. They were the finalists from 735,555 seniors in 14,788 high schools enrolled to take the written knowledge and attitude test on which the scholarships are based.

Seniors relate fears

Destruction of the environment, war and economic depression are fears most expressed by seniors in a nationwide poll.

Some 45 per cent of 1,000 top students listed destruction of the environment as their number one fear while 33 per cent listed war and 13 per cent said economic depression was their chief concern for the future.

Only eight per cent thought that lack of energy was a serious problem.

AFS's Janet Strathern at Claremont

By AMY GUSMAN
Claremont Correspondent

The young lady wears a T-shirt that tells the story. In bold black letters on white it reads, "AFS — South Africa."

Her smile is bright, her hair a short, sporty blonde, her accent English, and her gaze direct. The young lady is 18-year-old Janet Strathern. The story is that she is one of two foreign exchange students visiting Claremont High School this year through the American Field Service program.

Janet is staying with the Glenn Paden family; her adopted father and mother, brother Jeff, 19, a college student and sister Kim, 17, who is a senior at Claremont High School and Janet's roommate.

HOMETOWN

JOHANNASBURG, South Africa, is Janet's hometown — a big city similar to the cities in the United States. She has already graduated from high school and has been attending the University of Capetown on the Cape of Good Hope.

She finds Claremont High quite different from her private, secondary school back home. High school is five years long in South Africa and students are in one class of 25 to 30 for the entire five years.

Unlike Claremont, which is on the module system, Janet had five consecutive class periods in a row with a break for lunch. "At Claremont everyone is always walking around," Janet observes, and she finds that she doesn't really know what to do with the free time the module system allows.

Janet also finds Claremont High to be much less formal than the schools back home. At home, "If a teacher walks in the room the class stands up and says good morning or whatever," she says. "You must stand up when you speak in class and be very respectful," she adds. She thinks it is a good thing that American students are "on a more talkable basis with their teachers."

AUGUST

Janet has been in America since the beginning of August, spending two days in New York and then flying to San Francisco, where she saw the Golden Gate Bridge — one of many "must sees" on her list.

She has already examined Los Angeles, Hollywood, the beach, Catalina Island (Oh, it was so beautiful!)) and Magic Mountain.

Of course, she wants to go to Disneyland since "everyone in South Africa knows about it," and says she would love to go to Mexico. But Janet's main goals are to see as much of California as she can, meet lots of people and become involved at Claremont High.

In the few days that Janet has been at school she says she has seen a lot of lonely people on campus and she knows that it is difficult to make friends.

She finds Californians to be very easy going but not overly friendly. "Most seem a little wary of strangers and especially foreigners," she notes.

She would like to become involved in student government and journalism at Claremont and is quite interested in the girl's hockey and tennis teams, two sports she participated in at home. She was also captain of the swim team and active in drama, as well.

SPEAKS ENGLISH

There were no problems for Janet in adjusting to the language in the states since English is her native tongue. A sort of Dutch language called Africanse is also spoken in South Africa and Janet speaks that as well.

The food in America is basically the same although she finds there are "incredible amount of fast food places," and she is delighted at the many different flavors of ice cream. She has yet to taste a peanut butter and jelly sandwich since "they don't have those in South Africa." Janet drank root beer for the first time and was surprised to find that it tasted like a kind of bubble gum they have back home!

POLITICS

Janet explained the political situation in Africa with care. "South Africa has a system of segregation called apartheid that separates black people, white people and colored people (mixed race) and it is a policy that the world doesn't agree with." Janet says that the situation has been peaceful up until about two weeks before she left, when the riots broke out.

"As an AFS student, I am sort of an ambassador for my country," she explains. "I don't agree with the situation but naturally, I defend my country." Janet goes on to say that petty apartheid, (where, for example, there are separate doors for black and whites in public places) has been done away with but she adds that a situation such as this one "can't change overnight — it takes time."

Janet has never seen a riot in her homeland although she has watched them on television in the United States.

"I can't believe that where I lived was like that," she says.

Divorce rate stays highest among teens

The number of teen-age marriages is still rising, and their divorce rate continues to be the highest of all.

In 1975, an estimated 2.2 million couples went to the altar. One bride in every five and one groom in 15 were in their teens.

And the divorce rate of teen-age wives is four times greater than that of women who marry later, according to the U.S. Bureau of Vital Statistics.

The rate for teen-age husbands is three times higher than it is in the general population. And one in every four couples who marry in their teens will wind up in the divorce courts by the time either partner reaches the age of 24, statistics show.

TRAUMATIC

A marital breakup in the teen years can be the most traumatic of all divorces, according to W. Keith Daugherty, executive director of the Family Service Association of America.

Young people may feel that a divorce is "just an incident in their lives that will soon be forgotten, but they are deluding themselves," he said. "A divorce is almost certain to leave wounds that can hurt for a long time."

A teen marriage that does succeed involves young people who have achieved emotional maturity, Daugherty said.

READINESS

Following are some questions teens should ask themselves to determine if they're really ready for marriage:

1. Does each of you feel able to make important decisions without relying mostly on parents? Consulting them is one thing; depending on their judgment is a danger sign.

2. Is your real reason for wanting to marry to flee from unhappy situations at home?

3. Is it love or, as sociologist Dr. Lester A. Kirkendall puts it, "jealousy and a desire to possess," which are evidence of insecurity or a need to control or dominate?

4. Is the marriage being rushed or forced because of pregnancy?

TAKE TIME

5. Have you given your relationship the most important of all tests — time? Dr. Evelyn Millis Duvall, a family-life expert, points out that a couple should know each other well enough "to be able to predict each other, empathize with each other, know where their likes and dislikes concur and differ."

6. Do both sets of parents approve? Studies reveal that couples who marry over the objections of parents run a greater risk of early breakup.

7. Have you reached agreement on the major decisions that will affect your lives — where to live, having children, religious differerences, life style after marriage?

SUPPORT

8. Will the two of you be financially independent? If you must depend upon parents for support, look out!

9. Have you decided to commit yourself to a permanent union?

Studies show that in marriages where such a commitment is not made, divorce is often the consciously considered solution to any problem.

Four new correspondents sign on

Four more Teen Scope correspondents have reported in to cover events on their various high school campuses for the Progress Bulletin.

This brings to 10 the total number of student journalists now assigned to write for Teen Scope this school year.

The new reporters are Melissa Clesceri of Ganesha High School in Pomona; Cindy Kevorkian of the American Christian Academy, a private school in Pomona sponsored by the Central Baptist Church; Barbara Thrasher of Lutheran High School La Verne; and Joel Bryan of Calvary Baptist Schools, sponsored by the Calvary Baptist Church of La Verne.

Others are Susan Bergmann of Pomona Catholic High School, Amy Gusman of Claremont High School, Martin Ramirez of Damien High School in La Verne, Tanya Reamy of Chino High School, Karen Johnson of Bonita High School in La Verne and Roland Salvato of Pomona High School.

Correspondents still are being sought for high schools not represented. Students interested in reporting on campus activities at their individual schools may call Phyllis Cannon at 622-1201, Ext. 205.

ASB cards & extras sell fast at Pomona

By ROLAND SALVATO
Pomona High
Correspondent

Increased sales of this year's Pomona High School ASB card have been reported as a result of new promotional ideas.

In the first two weeks of school more than 225 cards have been sold, which is far better than the amount sold by this time last year.

The boost in sales is attributed to the work of the Student Council who, along with the student sales coordinator Sandra Bowman, devised plans such as free ASB cards, class competition and money-saving extras.

With the purchase of an ASB card students will receive a discount card which is good for a 10 per cent discount on purchases at various valley businesses. The student will also receive a coupon book which contains some surprises.

Miss Bowman would like to remind students that the price of the ASB card will rise to $6.50 from the original $5 at the end of September. "The goal of the ASB card drive is to provoke student interest in all school activities," said Miss Bowman.

Bison meal rated tops

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP) — For some eight years, Elmo Bevington, a resident here, has sold buffalo meat at a hotel he owns at Garfield, Colo.

French falling for English girls

By Rosette Hargrove

PARIS — (NEA) — Statistics on the film-going public indicate that something approaching an attitude of prudishness has overtaken the country of "Emmanuelle." It seems the French are longing for films which picture love as something more than bumps and grinds.

How to explain the fact that the most naive love film shown in france this year has enjoyed a phenomenal success, totally unexpected?

Released some six months ago, "A Nous Les Petites Anglaises" (which translated freely reads "The Little English Girls Are All Ours") gave no hint at first that the public would like it. As a matter of fact, it had the earmarks of a movie soon to vanish from the screens.

It shows no explicit sex, features no stars. It is an unpretentious picture. It took less than 27 weeks to make at a minimum cost of around $40,000 dollars. As for the producer, never before had he made a full-length movie.

At the end of six months, in Paris alone, a half-million filmgoers had seen it.

Already "The Little English Girls" has grossed 10 times as much as the production costs. Its success is almost comparable to "Emmanuelle," the most successful erotic French film ever made — still showing in Paris, a run which has lasted well over two years.

"Emannuelle" portrayed naked sex without love, stopping just short of the rank pornographic. Incidentally, "Last Tango in Paris" is now shrugged off as completely outmoded, somewhat ridiculous so far as erotic standards go.

It is a gently funny picture about a group of adolescent French boys sent by their parents to England to perfect their English after having failed their exams. The boys are also in quest of promiscuous English girls. It is redolent of nostalgic recollections of sentimental, fumbling first love.

The French boys believe that English girls are more easily wooed and bedded than French girls. And all the English girls are impatient to get at the French boys. Two of the girls are unattractive and tarty.

Questioned, two English boys and one girl saw nothing objectionable in the theme. The girl, as well as the boys, took the English girls' sexual casualness as a matter of course.

For over a year war has raged in France against the pornographic film industry. A government decree has forbidden the display of erotic stills at the entrance of porn theaters. Heavier taxes are to be applied to pornographic films which are said to leave the producers completely cold as they are sure of their profits. These mediocre films with more than mediocre actors are surefire production bets. Why should a producer risk two or three million dollars at a minimum — without the guarantee of success when for the same sum he can produce two or three films which are sure to "make money"?

Still, in regions such as Britany and Central France where morals have hitherto been on the austere side, when the local weekly cinema performance advertises a "blue" film after the conventional picture, moviegoers young and old, stay on. But one oldster commented: "When you've seen one you've seen them all."

The play opened June 20 and has had its run extended twice. It is one of the longest-running dramatic plays to appear in a major Los Angeles theater.

Produced by Kermit Bloomgarden and Doris Cole Abrahams in association with Frank Milton, "Equus" stars Brain Bedford as the soul-searching psychiatrist, Martin Dysart, who must "cure" the disturbed 17-year old youth, Alan Strang, played by Dai Bradley. Other members of the cast are Humbert Allen Astredo, Betty Miller, Cathryn Damon, Penelope Willis, Danny Sewell, Mary Hara and David Ramsey. The production has been directed by Tony Award winner, John Dexter.

Performances continue Tuesday through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday evening at 7:30. Matinees are on Wednesday and Saturday at 2:30 p.m. The final week of performances will play Nov. 1 through Nov. 6.

Jenner too young for role

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bruce Jenner won the Olympic decathalon championship in Montreal but he lost the screen test for the role of "Superman." Reason: he's too young.

Producer Ilya Salkind, who has already signed Marlon Brando and Gene Hackman for roles in his Superman epic, said that the title role "requires an actor who can project between the ages of 35 and 40."

Salkind and director Guy Green praised the athlete as a fast learned who came through his screen test "like a well-polished actor." But they added that Jenner photographs 25-26 years old, too young for the age of Clark Kent-Superman in the script.
